

$400,000 in Claims Against Resnick Estate

By LYNN MULVANEY

KINGSTON
Claims of close to $400,000 have been filed against the estate of the late Congressman Joseph Y. Resnick, according to Ulster County Surrogate Court records.

Resnick died last October and left a reported legacy in excess of a million dollars, most of which was willed to his wife and children in various trust funds. The three claims filed amount to $203,570, $1,133.20 and up to $189,018, respectively. The first and largest amount is claimed by an attorney, Emanuel G. Weiss in Philadelphia, Pa. Court of Common Pleas. Weiss represents himself and four individuals as well as the Emanuel-Ruth Investment Corporation. The other claimants are Harry I. Weiss, Helen Clovis, Ruth Ulansey and Mae G. Weiss. Their claim is based on a series of promissory notes signed by Resnick in May 1969. The notes were reportedly executed by Resnick and Questron Inc. in consideration of a sale between the aforementioned and Perfection Plastic Engineering Corporation. The notes were executed in order to secure the payment of the balance of proceeds due for the sales and transfer of stocks.

Special

The total sum due under the agreement was $275,000. Resnick reportedly made payment of $50,000 at the time of the transfer of capital stock and payments of $4,286 on the principle together with accrued interest on the entire balance each month for four months, up to and through Oct. 1, 1969, a few days before his death. Since no payments have been made since his death, the claimants maintain that Resnick and Questron Inc. have defaulted and they therefore are calling all notes due and payable under terms of the agreement. They state they are looking to the estate of Joseph Y. Resnick for payment of the balance due — $203,570 together with interest."

The smallest claim of $1,133.20 is for printing and duplicating services in the Majority Room, House of Representatives, Washington, D. C. 14, 1969. The claimant is George Truman Ward, administrator of the estate of Truman Ward.

of which is not specifically stipulated, is being made by a Connecticut Bank, the Fairfield County Trust Company, which states that Resnick endorsed and guaranteed a loan of $189,000 made to John McAdams Union Trust Company, Fairfield, Conn., which since has merged with Fairfield Trust. Affidavits of the claims have been sent to Matthew A. Weiss Jr., clerk of Surrogate Court. The claim also notes that the note was originally taken with 108 made to John McAdams Union Trust Company, Fairfield, Conn., which since has merged with Fairfield Trust. Rhinebeck Crash Kills Dutchess Man

By TIM SCHUSTER

RHINEBECK
A Hyde Park man was killed after his car skidded off Route 9G and struck a tree early this morning. It was one of several area automobile accidents in the area and state.

Police blame most of the numerous accidents, including the death of two Rochester monks and their student in the Sullivan County community of Wurtsboro and the death of three persons in a bus accident near Saratoga Springs, on the extremely slippery road conditions produced by cold weather and a light snowfall.

Dead in Dutchess County is 54-year-old William F. Hampe of 42 Red Barn Road, Hyde Park. State police at Rhinebeck said that a passing motorist notified an ambulance and the police of the accident about 1:40 a. m., but "I don't know how long before that the accident occurred."

Campion's Auto Body of Staatsburg had to be called to the scene to cut away the metal framework of the smashed car so the body could be extricated. Dutchess County Coroner Chester Golding pronounced Hampe dead at the scene. The body was taken to the White Funeral Home in Rhinebeck.

In Sullivan County, three persons were killed in a two-car head-on crash on the Route 17 expressway, known as the Quickway.

They were Brothers Joseph Crane, 32, and John Stewart, 22, both of Bishop Kearney High School in Rochester; and James Hebbing, 17, a student at the same institution.

Authorities said Crane's car crossed over the center mall while attempting to pass a truck. The late model station wagon then collided with a car occupied by Frank Farnsworth, 29, and Stella Farnsworth, 23, both of Mt. Vernon. Both are reported in satisfactory condition at St. Luke's Hospital, Newburgh.

The Brothers' car telescoped upon impact, according to police, and Hebbing had to be pried out of the back seat.

In Saratoga Springs, a chartered ski bus overturned, killing three persons and injuring another 24 Friday night on the snow-covered Northway, Interstate 87.

The victims were identified as Katherine Batynski of Clifton, N. J.; David Hughes of Union, N. J.; and Linda G. Mabe of Woodridge, N. J. The three were apparently killed when the bus rolled over them after they were ejected.

Six of those injured were treated and released from Saratoga Hospital, while the other 18 were admitted. Many of the injured fell through emergency exit windows which popped open upon impact.

The bus had been chartered by the "73 Club" of Woodridge for a skiing trip to Lake Placid. The accident occurred less than six hours after another chartered bus overturned several miles north on the same highway, injuring four persons.

A number of the passengers continued on their way via another bus.

In Ulster County, a Long Island man suffered a broken neck in a two-car accident on Route 28 in Hurley and was transported from Kingston Hospital to Albany Medical Center in critical condition.

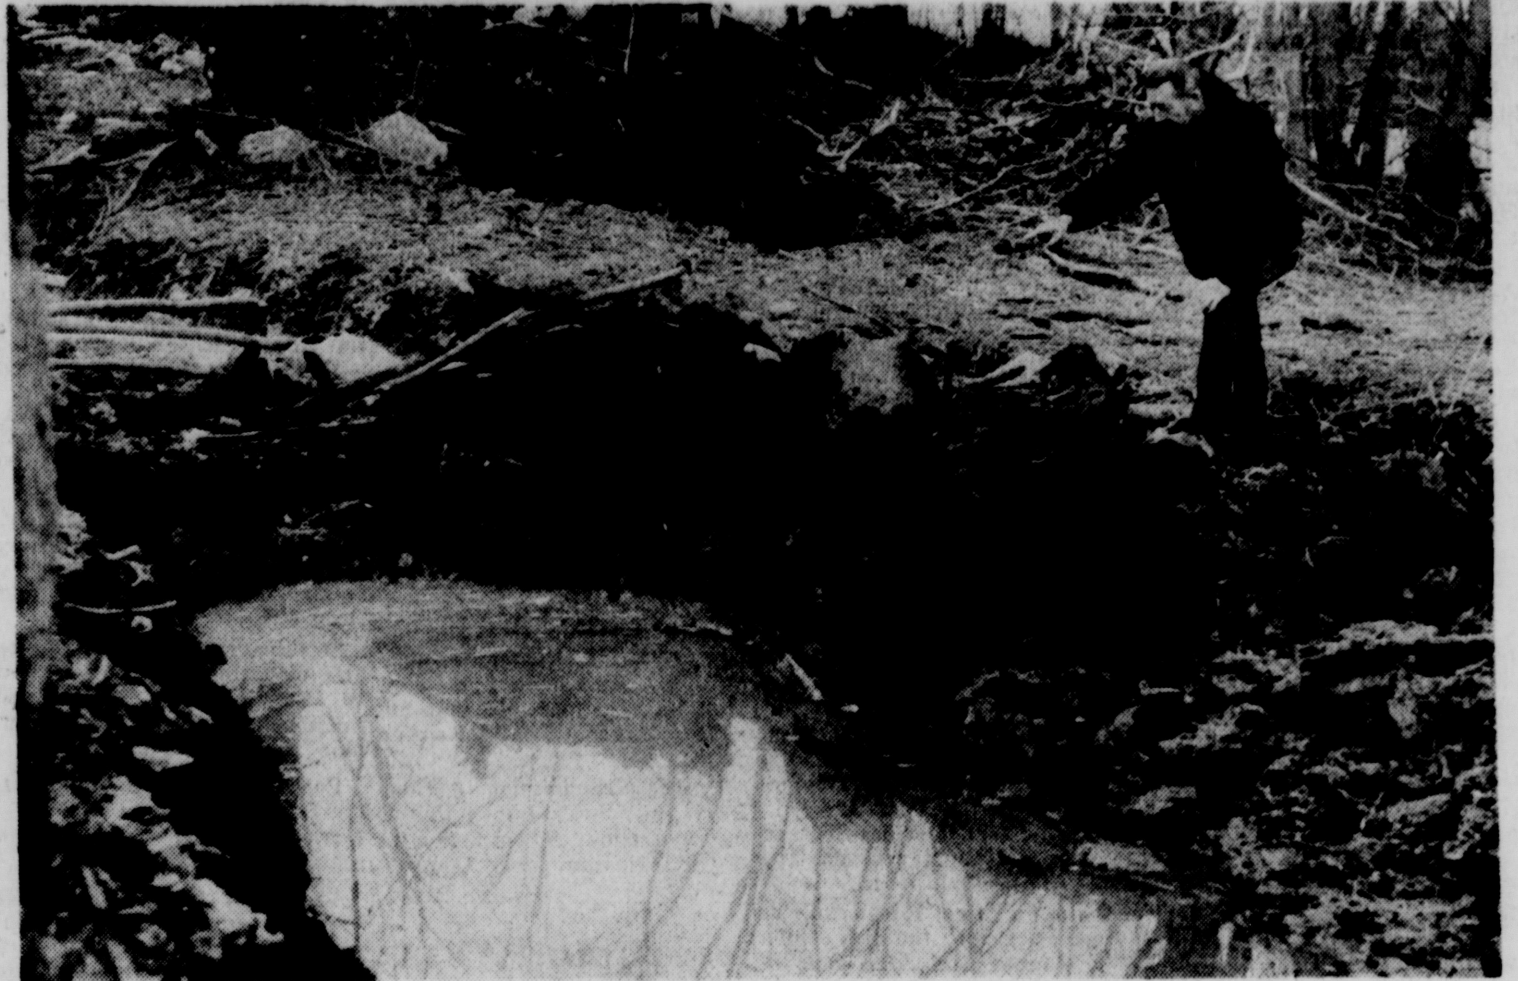

Others injured in that accident included Joseph Uhl, former Ulster County Community College basketball standout, who was the driver of one of the vehicles. His passenger, Joan Sanford, 20, of Margaretville, received lacerations, while Uhl received abrasions and a possible concussion.

Passengers of the other car, driven by Ronald Agresta of Huntington, L. I., were injured including the driver, Eugene Agresta, Ludwig Laudis and Kozusko. Doctors Ambulance removed several and Falm's Ambulance removed others. Injured in a 6:45 p.m. accident on Route 28 were Mary and John McManus of Mt. Tremper and Michael Bodner, all passengers of the car driven by John McManus. Driver of the other car was Jean Robinson of Boiceville. Icy roads were blamed for the accident.

A Rosendale man, Ernest Greco, was injured in a one-car accident on Route 32 about 10:30 p.m., and was treated at Benedictine Hospital for possible concussion after his car skidded off the road.

Two men were seriously injured after a pickup truck and a large truck collided on Route 209, according to Ellenville state police. Driver of the truck, Fred W. Hepner of Copley, Pa., escaped serious injury after the pickup truck driven by Gary Van Gieson, 25, of Saugerties, skidded into the path of his vehicle.

Van Gieson is listed in fair condition at Benedictine Hospital, while his passenger, Robert Kofler, 22, of Kingston, is in poor condition in the intensive care unit with internal bleeding.

Getting Ready for Spring Rains

One of Dionne Quintuplets Dead

MARIE DIONNE HOULE
(UPI) Telephoto

MONTREAL (AP) — Marie Houle, one of the four surviving Dionne quintuplets, was found dead at the age of 35 Friday after a brief illness. The cause of death was not known and an autopsy was to be performed today.

Mrs. Houle's brother-in-law, Germain Allard, went to her Montreal apartment and with a policeman and doctor broke down the door when she didn't answer.

"I was checking on her because she had not phoned since last Monday, Allard said. "She usually phoned every day."

At their home in Callander, near the tourist and rail center of North Bay in northern Ontario, the quint's parents, Olivia and Elzire, now in their 60s, were reported to be "very upset."

The first of the famous quintplets to die was Emilie, who suffocated during an epileptic seizure in 1954.

Surviving are Annette of Saint Bruno, Que., the wife of Allard, a finance company executive; Cecile, separated from her husband Philippe Langlois and living in Quebec City with her four children; and Yvonne, who is unmarried and lives in Montreal.

Marie was separated from her husband, Florian Houle, whom she married at the age of 24. Their two children had been placed in a foster home operated by nuns before her 35th birthday, last May 28.

Born in 1934 and raised with much publicity, the quint has been beset by a variety of family troubles and personal misfortune.

Until they were 2 years old, play yard behind wire fences while crowds gathered to watch. They were credited with boosting Ontario's tourist income from $31 million in 1934 to $100 million in 1936.

As the sisters' fame spread, the provincial government set up a trust fund for them from their earnings. In 1955, when the four surviving members reached 21, the fund amounted to more than $1 million.

A few years ago in one of their rare interviews, the sisters said there was friction between them and their parents as they grew older, especially over control of the trust fund.

Marie entered a convent in Quebec City in 1954 but she was forced to leave because of poor health. She then tried another convent in Richelieu but also they were displayed in an open left.

In 1965, she used a portion of the trust fund to set up a florist shop in Montreal called Salon Emilie, named for her deceased sister. The shop failed after six months.

She married Houle, a provincial government clerk, in 1958. They separated in 1966.

One of Cecile's twin sons, Bruno, died seven years ago at the age of 15 months. He had been deformed since birth. Cecile has been working as a part-time nurse to help support her four surviving children.

Yvonne, who studied with Cecile to be a nurse, is described as the most independent of the sisters. She lives in Montreal, where she has studied painting, drawing and woodcraft.

Annette studied music in Montreal before she married Allard in 1957. She lives a quiet life in Saint Bruno with her husband and three sons.

Meanwhile, in New York, Sarah Kienast, a 4-day-old quintuplet has apparently overcome a brief respiratory difficulty. Her brothers and sisters are reported in improving health.

"The infant is responsive and crying lustily," a spokesman at Babies Hospital of Columbia Presbyterian Medical Center said Friday of Sarah.

The parents of the three girls and two boys are Mr. and Mrs. William Kienast of Liberty Corner, N.J.

Mrs. Kienast, who gave birth six weeks prematurely, was reported sitting up in bed and reading congratulatory telegrams from throughout the world.

State Regents Board Favors Repeal of Blaine

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — The repeal of the constitutional ban on state aid to parochial schools. The Regents, governing body of education, reaffirmed their position on the issue Friday over the sharp protests of two members.

Regents Max J. Rubin of New York City and Kenneth B. Clark of Hastings on Hudson said the repeal would pave the way to a racially segregated school system.

"I... fear that when enough financial assistance will be provided for non-public institutions, we will witness the creation of schools that will be all black or all white," Rubin said. Clark said the public schools could become predominantly black as white parents send their children to private schools. The public dissension was unusual for the Regents, who generally manage an appearance of unanimity.

The Regents supported the repeal in a 11-2 vote. Carl H. Pforzheimer Jr. of Purchase abstained after asking for a further study and Charles W. Milard Jr. of Buffalo was absent. "I would hope," Chancellor

Joseph W. McGovern of the Bronx said after the meeting, "that the concerns of Regents Clark and Rubin would be taken care of in legislative action."

The repeal measures should protect against discrimination and perhaps require open admissions to everyone, he said.

In their resolution, the Regents sided with the Assembly version of legislation to repeal the so-called Blaine Amendment. The Assembly measure would allow taxpayer suits to contest state appropriation of money for non-public schools. The Senate did not include this provision when it approved the repeal measure.

In other action, The Regents: —Reaffirmed their support of efforts to help finance secular education in sectarian schools.

A number of proposals for this year are being considered, they said. —Declared their intention to develop and expand programs $37,500 a year.

to teach schoolchildren about the dangers of drug abuse.

—Created a nine-member commission to study the education in colleges, business and trade schools, correspondence schools and federally supported programs.

—Named Gordon M. Ambach of Albany as executive deputy education commissioner to fill a post vacated by Ewald B. Nyquist when he was appointed education commissioner. The 35-year-old educator will be paid $37,500 a year.

CUTS CENSUS TAPE—The 28th Congressional District office of the U.S. Department of Commerce Bureau of the Census, opened at 31 New Market Street, Poughkeepsie Friday with a cutting of a computer tape to be used for recording census data. Congressman Hamilton Fish Jr., cut the tape, in the presence of about 45 persons and urged that all concerned with the project cooperate in the 1970 census which he called "very serious business." Among those at the opening were (l-r), Harold Anderson of the Office of Economic Opportunity; Fish; Louis DeCicco, Kingston City Clerk; Frank Miller of Hurley, field supervisor and Henry Heisenbuttal, Dutchess Commissioner of Planning. Perry Named Athletic Director

By MORT LAFFIN

STONE RIDGE
Michael J. Perry Jr., Ulster County Community College's successful basketball coach, has been appointed to the position of Athletic Director at the Stone Ridge junior college. The Daily Freeman learned today.

Perry, an assistant professor in the Department of Physical Education, Health Education and Recreation, was appointed to the post by the Board of Directors of the Ulster Community College Association, Inc. He replaces Kenneth J. Wolf, who resigned from the position effective June 30. However, Perry's appointment was made for continuity and orderly transition in athletics from this college year to the next. Wolf will remain in an advisory capacity to the new AD and his resignation becomes effective.

The Senator's cage coach also grees, is chairman of the Ulster County Parks and Recreation Commission and is presently doing graduate study at the University of New York. He is in the process of co-authoring a book on recreational swimming pools with Dr. Milton A. Gabrielsen, a nationally ranked authority on recreation.

Ulster County Community College trounced the Marist College Frosh, 113-89, Friday at the Municipal Auditorium. Story on Page 9.

At Siena, Perry played and coached under the late Dan Cunha, considered one of the most knowledgeable basketball mentors in the country. He was also a member of the cross-country and baseball teams believing to become an assistant to Cunha.

While serving as a lieutenant in the U. S. Army, Perry coached the 8th Infantry Division basketball team in the European Tourney as well as activities Director in the Mainz area. He is also a certified basketball official and member of many referee and umpiring groups, as well as District Two Chairman of the NCAA Junior College Committee.

Perry said today: "Our athletic program at the college in the past has enhanced the reputation of the college. We have won several regional titles and enjoyed national recognition. The school has come a long way athletically, in seven years, and I hope it continues while I am Director of Athletics."

3 'Copters Downed; War Total Is 1,500

SAIGON (UPI)—The U.S. Cong unit attacked a suburban command announced today the militia outpost in the first losses of three more helicopters to guerrilla ground fire, bringing the number of 'copters shot down in the Vietnam war to 1,500.

In Saigon, a 10-man Viet Headquarters said seven

Americans were killed and six were wounded in the losses of the three helicopters Friday. In addition to the 1,500 'copters shot down, 1,924 have been lost in shelling attacks or because of breakdowns, spokesmen said. All six GIs aboard one of the

Another American died and three were wounded in the downing of an observation helicopter 90 miles southwest of the capital, and three U.S. soldiers were wounded when their 'copter went down 10 miles southwest of Hue on the northern coast.

The number of helicopters shot down hit the landmark figure nine years and two months after the U.S. Command began keeping a tally of the losses on Jan. 1, 1961.

Ground fighting across Vietnam at the same time was described as light, with the attack on the militia post inside Saigon getting the most attention in South Vietnamese communiques.

Military spokesmen said the South Vietnamese defenders of the outpost had five men wounded in the 50-minute firefight before driving off the attackers, who left behind two bodies.

The outpost is situated in a sparsely populated area on the outskirts of the city, about five miles southwest of downtown Saigon. It was the first guerrilla ground attack in the city limits since last Nov. 7.

Two terrorist bombs exploded in the capital during the night, one injuring five persons, two of them Americans, outside the Metropole hotel for U.S. enlisted men, the other causing no damage or casualties in the Cholon section.

Understanding Christ on Church Membership

The word "church" has come to mean many things to many people. With more than 250 different denominational churches professing to follow Christ, it is easy to see how such vastly different concepts of the church have emerged.

These misconceptions have, in turn, produced misunderstanding about church membership.

Church membership to the individual in the first century consisted simply of being a faithful Christian. Christians in a given community made up the church.

In our age many think of church membership in terms of their denominational affiliation. In the first century, however, Christians belonged to no denomination because there was none.

Church membership to other people suggests their official responsibilities in a religious organization, bringing to mind their formal connection with some ecclesiastic body. Yet in New Testament times there was no organizational superstructure or ecclesiastic hierarchy of any kind.

In the first century every Christian in the very process of his conversion became a member of the church. In contrast, many today think of conversion as one matter, and "joining" the church as quite another.

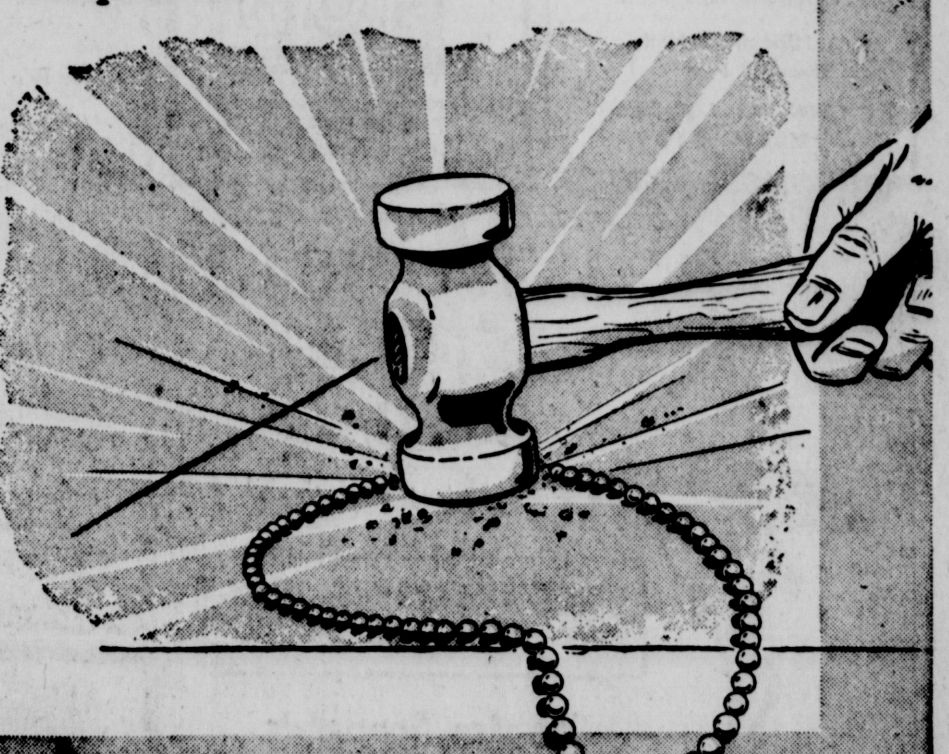

Inasmuch as all of the saved made up the church in the first century, early Christians had no difficulty understanding the relationship between church membership and salvation. Today some deeply resent the implication that church membership has anything to do with one's salvation.

All of these misconceptions of the church and church membership constitute a clear case of "crushing pearls" — a description given by Christ of those incapable of comprehending certain spiritual truths (Matthew 7:6).

To be saved a person must be redeemed by the blood of Christ (1 Peter 1:18,19). A person redeemed by the blood of Christ belongs to Christ. All belonging to Christ are in His church.

The church is also described as the kingdom or spiritual body of Christ. Since Christ is the saviour of His spiritual body, the king over His kingdom, and head over His church—one must be in His spiritual body, His kingdom, or His church in order to be saved. This is an inescapable conclusion if the language of the New Testament is respected.

To Represent County at 4-H Capital Day

Katie Barnhart of Stone Ridge and Thurlow Weed III of New Paltz have been selected to represent Ulster County at the 4-H Capital Day Program in Albany on March 23. The program begins with an orientation on "How a Bill Becomes a Law." For the next two days, Katie and Ted will visit the Legislature, Court of Appeals, New York State Museum, the Capitol Building, and the alternate seat of government. Included in their trip will be a breakfast with Ulster County's State Assemblyman and Senator.

The 4-H Capital Day was started by Albany, Rensselaer and Schenectady Counties in the early 1930s as a means of acquainting 4-H'ers with the state government. At the time it was a one-day trip and open to any 4-H'er who could attend. It afforded an opportunity to meet the Governor, State Legislators, department heads and to go to see places that they otherwise would have little opportunity to see.

This event has grown so that for some years every county with 4-H work has participated. Due to the accommodations available and number that can be taken care of at the various functions, it has been necessary to limit the delegation to one boy and one girl per county. So this is quite an honor for Ted and Katie.

4-H CAPITAL DAY PROGRAM—Representing Ulster County at the 4-H Capital Day Program in Albany March 23 will be Katie Barnhart, 16, daughter of Mrs. Elizabeth L. Barnhart of Stone Ridge, and Thurlow R. Weed III, 17, son of Mr. and Mrs. Thurlow R. Weed Jr. of North Ohioville Road in New Paltz. Miss Barnhart has been active in 4-H for eight years, being a member of Marbletown Marbles and Krippelbush Kow Keepers. She is a student at Rondout Valley Central School where she is active in band, choir, Future Teachers of America, as well as member of church choir, Methodist Youth Fellowship, and Dutch Reformed Youth. Thurlow also has been a member of 4-H for eight years, being a member of Sunshine Mountain Club. A student at New Paltz High School, he is president of the Honor Society.

Organ Concert

Charles Brand, outstanding organist of this area, will present an organ concert which he calls a "Service of Praise and Thanksgiving," in the Kingston Christian and Missionary Alliance Church, 90 Millers Lane, at 7 p.m., Sunday, according to the pastor, the Rev. George B. Osborne. Mr. Brand has held recitals or concerts in a number of the churches of this area. After graduating from the New York State School for the Blind at Batavia, where he studied organ with Miss Grace Towles for four years, Mr. Brand studied with Dr. Elmer Tidmarsh, organist and teacher well-known throughout the east. For another three years Mr. Brand studied with Pastor A. Steinke—himself a student of Dr. Faxon of Boston.

Mr. Brand has been concertizing for 20 years. He has played throughout the Northeast and in Canada and the midwest. He accepted an invitation to audition for E. Power Biggs, which led to a recital before the American Guild of Organists at their 1950 convention in Boston. He was invited to play for Vernon DeTar, head of the organ department at Julliard in New York. As a member of the American Guild of Organists he gave several recitals in various cities of New York and New England under their auspices.

Since 1950, Mr. Brand has served as organist for a number of congregations. He has been highly commended and recommended by such people as Burt Bently, president of the Cortland Conservatory of Music, Cortland, N. Y.; Richard Schnitzer, music director of Good Shepherd Lutheran Church, Saginaw, Mich.; and Dr. Elmer Tidmarsh, Union College, Schenectady. The public is invited to attend.

Susan Marion Rubin Weds Thomas J. Brown

Miss Susan Marion Rubin, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Martin J. Rubin of Shandaken, became the bride of Thomas Joseph Brown, son of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Brown of Detroit, Mich., on Saturday, Feb. 14, at the Motel Du Moulin in Shandaken.

The Rev. John Gorman officiated at the double ring ceremony. Thomas Amter of Walden was accordinionist and Mrs. Burton Weisner of Long Island sang traditional wedding selections.

Given in marriage by her parents, the bride wore a gown of Chantilly lace over silk taffeta, styled with a fitted basque bodice, scalloped Sabrina neckline, long fitted sleeves, and a full skirt with cascade of ruffles in front and a loose back panel. Her cathedral length French illusion silk veil was attached to a Camelot headpiece trimmed in pearls with white satin loops and streamers at the back. She carried a heart-shaped bouquet of white roses with white satin streamers.

Miss Cecile Rubin, cousin of the bride, was maid of honor in a floor length gown, fashioned with a ruby velvet bodice over a soft pale pink satin skirt. The gown was styled with a scooped neckline and Juliette sleeves. A pink satin Camelot headpiece with ruby lace trim held her bouffant veil and she carried a heart-shaped bouquet of pink roses.

Attendees were Miss Mary Ann Smithers of Shandaken and Miss Ann Weigand of Long Island. Their gowns and headpieces were identical in styling to that of the honor attendant's and they carried heart-shaped bouquets of pink carnations.

Roy Wood of New Paltz was best man. Ushers were Howard Rubin, brother of the bride; and Rodney Deucher of Long Island.

Miss Ann Marie Nazzaro of Shandaken served as flower girl in a pale pink gown styled similarly to those of the other attendants. Jeffrey Root, nephew of the bridegroom, Welland, Ontario, Canada, was ring bearer.

A wedding reception was held at Le Moulin Restaurant, Route 28 in Phoenicia.

The bride is a graduate of Ontario Central School and attended Ulster County Community College. Her husband attended school in Garden City and is assistant food service manager at the Merchant Marine Academy at Kings Point, L.I.

Mr. and Mrs. Brown will reside in Great Neck, L.I.

FREEMAN ADS BRING RESULTS

TEEN SCENE: Everyone Dipping Into Tie-Dye

by LEI

Grandmothers may not approve of thigh-high skirts on girls and lilac-velvet bellbottoms on boys but the latest teen clothing fad is no stranger to grandmothers—in fact, they invented the process of tie-dyeing. While the colors and designs were more muted when the process was popular at the century, the fascination of the random patterns and colors remains the same.

Tie-dyed garments are for sale at most clothing stores that feature young fashions and cheap garments with printed-on dye-marks will soon be flooding the market. However the process is so simple and interesting that most teens will want to try giving some of their leisure clothes the tie-dye treatment. Those who sew might also want to dye some fabric and make really one-of-a-kind styles.

Tie-dye patterns can be produced by either removing existing color from material with bleach, or adding new color with dyes. In order to produce the designs, areas of the material are bound tightly, so that the dye can't penetrate under the binding. These areas will remain the original color, while the rest of the garment will be dyed.

One very simple tie-dye project involves slopping strong bleach on an old pair of blue jeans—the non-stretch variety, for best results. No tying-off is necessary, and the process results in interesting blotches. For best results, try this first on some discarded denim, and get the feeling of how much bleach to use, and how to encourage interesting design and balance. The more intricate and smaller the areas are, the more eye-catching the finished design will be. Caution and rubber gloves are strongly advised in handling the straight bleach, and it should not be allowed to spill on non-color-fast surfaces. Remember too, the bleach will weaken the fabric, so don't leave it on any longer than necessary, or you'll have lace trousers. It's a good idea to read the bleach label before you start and make note of all cautions mentioned there.

For tie-dyeing you will need, in addition to the fabric or garment to be decorated, packages of dye, a large pot for the dye bath, a paint stirrer to stir the bath, rubber gloves (unless you want blue or orange hands for a week or so), and a package of strong elastic bands. You may also need the commercial color remover sold at dye counters, and bottles of concentrated dye.

Two designs that are easy to create are stripes and circles. For stripes, simply pleat or gather the material at the point where you want the stripe, and fasten a rubber band around it very tightly. For wide stripes, spread the band out—for narrow ones keep it close together. Dye the fabric carefully, according to directions and iron it before it is fully dry.

For circles, gather the material in a point, and enclose it tightly with a rubber band. The further from the tip of the point the band is, the bigger the circle will be. Two bands, one above the other, will form a free-form bull's-eye pattern. Tucking the tip of the point back under the elastic inside the bundle will produce a flower-like pattern.

More colorful designs can be formed by simmering colored material, after the knots are formed, in color remover, rinsing very well, and redyeing. By treating a red kerchief in this way, you could produce a wild red bull's eye on an orange background. Another method is to tie-dye the fabric in a bold color, remove the bands, allow it to dry, and then re-dye a contrasting pale shade. By using first blue and then yellow, for instance, you could produce a yellow pattern on pine green.

Other designs may be formed by dripping a squirting bottled liquid dye on damp material, allowing it to stand, rinsing and drying. A good first project is to tear up and experiment on a discarded sheet. The resulting swatches can be used as pillow covers, scarves, table covers, or (if they didn't work out) dust rags.

There are few rules to this engaging craft, but generally, results will be best if you follow directions on the dye box carefully, don't get dye in or on anything you don't want to color, and iron the fabric while damp. Choose harmonious colors, and take advantage of the opportunity to get a coordinated outfit—while you're decorating your shirt, for example, toss in a neckerchief, or die a pair of pantyhose with your shirt.

The results are guaranteed to be fashionable and eye-catching—and, best of all, original and one-of-a-kind.

ADVENTURE IN EUROPE—Discussing plans for a six-week trip to Europe this summer are John A. Coleman High School students Margaret Thurin, Jim Carpio, Linda McClusky, Maureen Wells, Clare Barrett and Kevin Rathjen. Lester Lombardi (C), Coleman coach and teacher, will be group supervisor for the National Foreign Study Center tour.

Summer Set in Merry England

KINGSTON winter glooms. Six Coleman named group supervisor by the Spring seems very far away and summer even more remote at this late February juncture. However, for a group of John A. Coleman High School students warm weather plans are doing much to dispell the mid-center.

Lombardi, who teaches English and coaches at John A. Coleman High School, will be leading the students from his own school on a six-week adventure in Europe this summer.

The group will be studying English Literature and Contemporary Europe at the British Summer Center, Cambridge, England. Included in the trip is a one-week Mediterranean cruise and visits to the capital cities of Europe.

Clare Barrett, Linda McCluskey, Margaret Thurin, Maureen Wells, James Carpio and Kevin Rathjen will be on the tour. Lombardi said there are still several places available for interested students. He may be contacted at John A. Coleman High School.

'Mouse to College' Theme of KHS Hop

KINGSTON The "Send a Mouse to College" theme of the American Cancer Society, adopted by the enthusiastic Future Business Leaders organization of students at Kingston High School serves as an example of young people becoming involved in the fight against cancer.

The officials of the student's group sparked by its president Dawn Fitzpatrick, organized a Mouse Bounce, a dance for Kingston High School students to be held in the cafeteria of the school during the ninth period starting about 2:30 p.m. on Friday, March 6.

The mouse theme promoted locally by the Ulster County Unit of the Cancer Society is designed to raise funds to purchase mice for laboratory cancer research.

A mouse for research costs 27 cents. Consequently tickets to the Mouse Bounce will cost 27 cents and each ticket sold will theoretically send a mouse to college. The enthusiastic response of the young people indicates that the promotion has tremendous potential and there are reports that student organizations in other high schools in the county are considering a similar activity to raise funds for this year's Cancer Crusade.

Mrs. John Milano, Future Business Leader club adviser said the student committee is currently making arrangements to secure the free services of a live band for the Mouse Hop. If this does not materialize, however, the juke box in the cafeteria will be used to provide music.

Dawn Fitzpatrick, who heads the 100-member youth group, said refreshments will be served at the dance and tickets are now on sale. Only Kingston High School students may attend the ninth period activity.

Mrs. Madeline Wendrow, executive director of the local Cancer Society unit said scientists need thousands of mice to help save lives from cancer. Last year, the American Cancer Society spent $12 million on research to help fight the war against cancer. This year, due to federal government cutbacks in research, it is anticipated that even more funds will be needed to support projects already in progress, she said.

Albert J. Cawein, county publicity chairman for the April crusade said the enthusiasm of these young people has given this year's crusade a tremendous lift. Their involvement and understanding of the great need for research funds to find a cure for cancer should serve as an added incentive to adults of the community to become more involved in this year's Cancer Crusade. The Student Council's Winter Carnival at the Field House today will have a booth featuring the Send a Mouse to College theme.

The Cancer Society local office at 400 Broadway in the Kingston Laboratory building is ready to assist with information and materials, any youth organization which would like to promote a similar project in their school.

Kingston Student Is Able Volunteer

STONY BROOK A Kingston student is vitally involved in an innovative program at State University of New York at Stony Brook.

Bette Weisman of 33A Fairmont Avenue, is one of a group of students who donate at least one night a week to volunteer work with patients at either Central Islip or Kings Park State Hospital.

An evening a week talking to lonely people or teaching women to apply make-up would not seem to be very rewarding work for university students, but some 350 members of the Central Islip Volunteer Club are doing just that—and enjoying it.

According to Dr. Fredric Levine, assistant professor of Psychology and club sponsor, it is the largest student group in the University. The students, from 60 to 80 on any given night, work with a wide variety of patients including children, adolescents and adults with geriatric patients and those suffering severe physical disorders.

"I'm constantly amazed by their energy, imagination and motivation," Dr. Levine said of the students. "They put in great effort for no tangible gain." He praised Howard Cragg, club president, for the student's devotion to the project. "To keep the group moving," Dr. Levine said, "he must be on call virtually all the time."

At first, patients were reluctant to become involved. Dr. Levine said, but now the students are a "very important part of their lives." The hospital visits began three years ago when Dr. Levine was preparing to do research at Central Islip. From 46 students the first year, participation has grown to the present level of 350 students.

How do students benefit? "They gain a rosy glow by doing something good—something altruistic," Dr. Levine said. A secondary benefit is that they gain pre-professional experience and a first-hand look at the health field.

Dr. Levine said he had received excellent cooperation from the University in purchasing supplies and providing transportation from the University to the hospitals. Hospital officials have also been most cooperative, he added.

"The program gets better every year," Dr. Levine said. "We have not had one complaint about student behavior since it began."

Dr. Levine said the success of the program was directly related to planning. Students are divided into groups of from five to 20, each with a student leader. The leaders meet weekly with Dr. Levine and Cragg, a senior psychology major. "Other than that, the students are free to plan their own programs and they are very resourceful," Levine said.

Youth in News

The play is the thing for Bob Stammeyer of New Paltz as Youth in the News goes to print this week.

Bob has the male lead in the 1970 Senior Play at New Paltz Central High School. The Man Who Came to Dinner by Moss Hart and George S. Kaufman is in early stages of rehearsal. Presentation will be Friday, March 20 and Saturday, March 21 at the High School auditorium. More on other cast members will be announced.

Last week Harry Snyder of Stone Ridge gave a student trumpet recital at Ithaca College.

Snyder, a senior music major at Ithaca, performed works of Haydn, Torelli, Piekart, Hovness and Gabrieli.

He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Harry E. Snyder, Box 303, Stone Ridge, and is a 1966 graduate of Rondout Valley High School.

Four area students in the class of 1971 received their diplomas from Mount Saint Mary College, Newburgh.

The ceremony was held at the Meadowbrook Lodge in Newburgh recently. The Rev. Michael Gillette, lecturer at the college, was the guest speaker.

The recipients include the following students: Paula O'Bryon, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Paul O'Bryon of Route 3, Box 39, Saugerties; Julianne Letus, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Letus of 669 Plainfield Street, Kingston; Karen Bonavita, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Bonavita of 91 Crane Street, Kingston; and Theresa Avnet, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Avnet of 51 Brewster Street, Kingston.

Susan Lang, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Lane of 27 Dunningman Avenue, Kingston, has enrolled in Concordia College, Bronxville, for the second semester of the 1969-70 school year. She is studying in the Liberal Arts program.

Concordia College is controlled and operated by the Lutheran Church-Missouri Synod and has recognition for the fall semester. Alan Dean Gordon, son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Gordon of Newton Avenue, Phoenixia, an English concentrator at Colgate University, Hamilton, has been named to the dean's list for the past semester.

Rondout Valley High School Making Beautiful Music Pay

STONE RIDGE Rondout Valley High is making beautiful music again.

Five Rondout Valley Central High School vocal music students—Caroline Robertaccio, Lana Slater, Ray Passer, Wendy Rose and Linda Young—have been awarded scholarships to the 1970 University of Kansas Summer Music Camp.

The six-week session is held annually and includes junior high and senior high students from all over the United States.

The five scholarships range from $100 to $125, to be applied toward tuition. Scholarships are awarded only in the senior high division. Selection was made on the basis of the students' rating in state competition and on their musical accomplishments at school, according to Mrs. Barbara Lottridge, Rondout's vocal music director.

Today the Bands of Rondout Valley High School will serve the annual spaghetti and meatball supper in the high school cafeteria, beginning at 5 p.m. Only a few tickets will be sold at the door.

Bandsmen and Director Lee Herrington spent all day today cooking the sauce and making meatballs. Past experience has made their culinary ability a byword.

Proceeds from the supper will be used to defray the expenses of this year's exchange concert with the Cumberland Valley High School Band of Mechanicsburg, Pa. The first of these concerts will be held at Rondout Valley Saturday, March 14. The local bands will travel to Pennsylvania the weekend of April 10.

Meanwhile Walter Highland, president of the Ulster County Music Educators Association, announced that plans for this year's All-County Band Festival Highland, Ontario, Saugerties, Kingston, Rondout Valley, Ellenville, Marlboro and Wallkill High School will host the musical event on Saturday, March 21, with Michael Torelli as general chairman.

After a day of rehearsals, three bands will perform for the public at 8 p.m. Added to the program this year will be an All-County Elementary Band comprised of 120 fifth and sixth grade students under the direction of Thomas Keehn, an instrumental music teacher in the Kingston Consolidated School system and also a member of the Hudson Valley Philharmonic Orchestra.

The Middle School Band will be co-conducted by Lee Herrington of the Rondout Valley High School and Robert Turner of the Highland Central School. Jack Pinto, a well-known musician and conductor from Maine-Endwell Central School, near Binghamton, will lead the All-County High School Band.

For the first time this year, all students for this group were auditioned and selected on the basis of their musical proficiency. Approximately 350 student musicians from New Paltz, Saugerties, Kingston, Rondout Valley, Ellenville, Marlboro and Wallkill school systems will participate.

In quite a different vein, four members of the Renaissance Project in Ellenville visited Rondout Valley Central High School recently, and presented four assembly programs as a public service to students and faculty. Two student assemblies were held, for grade 10 through 12, and for grades eight and nine. After school hours, two faculty programs were presented, one for Middle and High School faculties, and one for all faculty of the district's four elementary schools.

The four Renaissance people recounted their own experiences with drugs and the effect drugs had on them. They told their audiences why they had started in the first place and what they are doing now to free themselves of the habit.

Questions were invited, and the answers also provided much valuable information on this major modern problem.

BOICEVILLE bonds will help bring young understanding. Principal John Karuna Anuntkosol of Thailand traveled by bus to New York. The Metropolitan, Whitney and Guggenheim museums of art exhibiting some of the finest works of art in the world, were toured during the day. Students were able to be admitted to the museums and galleries free of charge.

Outstanding of the exhibits were the "22 Realists" show at the Whitney and the "Brancusi Retrospective" at the Guggenheim. In discussions during art classes following the art trip students expressed delight at the craftsmanship and deception techniques evident in the "Realists" show. Favorites were the ten foot high black and white portraits done in amazing detail and illusionary cut-out figures painted to look three-dimensional and placed on the floor in front of some paintings.

Brancusi's magnificent style in sculpture of capturing the pure-form essence of his subject was appreciated by the students. The elegant "Bird in Space" and several marble and brass heads were especially enjoyed.

Both teachers and students agreed that a field trip of this type has considerable educational value providing direct experience with the fantastic variety of contemporary and graphic students of Paul Heston and deLaura and Kenneth White offer.

In another fund effort at Onteora, the Student Council members have been collecting funds for Vietnamese refugees.

Since the middle of the month, annisters have been placed in stores and various activities have been conducted at the school in an effort to achieve the goal of $500 to be sent to the Vietnamese Refugee and Information Service in Pennsylvania which contributes to various hospitals, orphanages and he like in Vietnam.

An activity of quite a different sort was carried out by other Onteora students recently.

Stroudsburg Stops SU Mermen, 55-49

NEW PALTZ — East Stroudsburg (Pa.) swimming team won the last event of the program, the 400 yard freestyle relay, to defeat New Paltz State Hawks, 55-49, in a dual meet at Elting Gym pool.

Coach Art Stockin of State was disappointed on two counts. First, the time was identical in the final relay, but Stroudsburg was awarded the event on the judges decision.

Secondly, Stockin, who did graduate study at Stroudsburg, had hoped to upend his alma mater.

"I think we out-psyched ourselves," he said. "We set too fast an early pace in both relays and couldn't hold it."

Stroudsburg captured both relays. Mike Janoska (200 and 500 free) and Steve Schulman (50 and 100 free) scored doubles for the Hawks. Jack Fish won the 200 yard butterfly for the Key-stoners.

New Paltz closes its regular season with a Saturday match with Adelphi and a Wednesday due with Fredonia. Elting Gym will be the scene of the State of New York Athletic Conference (SUNYAC) meet the weekend of March 6-7.

Name DuBois Pool Director

KINGSTON — The appointment of William B. DuBois Jr. as pool director for the 1970 season was announced today by James O'Hara, chairman of the pool committee at Wiltwyck Country Club.

DuBois, currently serving as varsity basketball coach and co-ordinator of athletics at John A. Coleman High, succeeds Art Stockin, New Paltz State University swim coach.

A certified water safety instructor, DuBois was recreational and pool director at the Kerhonkson Swim Club last season. He brings to the post an excellent background of work with young people in the recreational field.

He has served in the past as director of physical education at the YMCA in Kingston; waterfront director of the YMCA Day Camp, Kingston point pool and the Kingston Point Beach. In addition, he was an instructor at St. Mary's parochial school and substitute physical education instructor in the Kingston Consolidated Schools. He was also an instructor in tennis for the City of Kingston.

The annual combined business and social event at the Gov. Clinton Hotel attracted a turnout of nearly 100 persons, including Assemblyman H. Clark Bell.

N. Jansen Fowler, its founder, was honored by the organization with an award emblematic of the appreciation of KATA members for his efforts in behalf of the organization and promotion of tennis in the Kingston area.

Annual committee reports were made by Henry Sykes, Joe Hevesi, Marshall Lipton, Mrs. Maggie Grover, Daisy Beal and Scrappy Hutton covering various phases of the organization's program. William Spangenberg, the president, noted with great interest Hutton's report, which indicated an increase in membership from 48 to 90.

The social part of the program was highlighted by a review of tennis from the 1870s to the present. Several members of KATA came dressed in typical tennis outfits depicting styles from the 1870s to the present.

Mesdames Davy Nelson, Doty Lauterbach, Scrappy Hutton and Miss Daisy Beal wore costumes from before the turn of the century. Mrs. Mary Fowler modeled a 1905 version of women's tennis wear. The 1920 vogue was displayed by Sandy Ihly and Mrs. Judy Sikes brought the costume display up to date.

Men's costumes for the same period were modeled by Spangenberg, Leyden, Roy Lauterbach, Fowler and Sykes.

A film presentation, "Great Moments in the History of Tennis" climaxed the evening.

NEW YORK (UPI)—Marty Liquori can give television's "instant replay" credit for helping preserve his perfect New York running record but the way Marty McGrady runs he doesn't need assistance from the video tube.

McGrady, the sensation of the indoor track circuit, led all the way Friday night en route to another record-breaking performance in his specialty, the 600-yard run, in the 82nd annual Amateur Athletic Union championships at Madison Square Garden.

The 23-year-old McGrady left no doubt of his superiority as he broke his own world record in the 600 for the third time in a two-week period with a clocking of 1:07.6. McGrady's fantastic run, which earned him a unanimous vote as the meet's outstanding performer, also marked the first time in 35 years that a runner has gained three consecutive national titles in the 600.

But it wasn't that easy for the controversial Liquori, America's premier miler who had to wait some 30 minutes after his race to learn the verdict. And meet officials had to watch the action in the bump disputed race on instant replay to decide the outcome.

The Villanova junior and defending champion Henry Szordykowski bumped one another on the first turn of the final lap and the official on the scene immediately dropped a red flag indicating a foul, presumably against Liquori.

The collegian from New Jersey recovered from the incident and finished first in the time of 4:00.9. As he crossed the finish line Liquori turned, pointed a finger at the Polish runner and they exchanged words.

Two officials voted to disqualify Liquori, blaming him for the bumping, but they were overruled by Stan Wright, chairman of the AAU track committee and chief official for the meet.

Out of "500" LONDON (AP)—Colin Chapman, head of Lotus cars, said Wednesday that his racing team would not compete in the Indianapolis 500 race at Indianapolis this year.

Big Intelligence Leak

CHARLES J. TIANO

Judging by the journalistic beats being racked up in Middletown these days, the intelligence apparatus of both the Section Nine committee and DUSO League executive council is leaking badly.

It all comes under the heading of journalistic enterprise, to be sure, and we're not faulting the reporter who came up with "The Big Story." If a school superintendent, athletic director, principal or coach comes out of an "executive session" and is willing to spill the beans to the hometown reporter, you can't blame the journalist. He's merely doing his duty.

We blame the superintendent, the principal, athletic director and coach to that order. We suggest to these gentlemen the next time they meet in "closed session" they be prepared to issue a statement to the press when the business is over. Otherwise, confidences dealing with high school conferences and sectionals won't be worth the paper they're not written on.

THE MEETING OF THE DUSO League Executive Council this week at the plush Nevele Country Club in Ellenville furnishes a classic example of "the leak."

Bob Abborino's report on the meeting said the assembled brass received two concurring opinions that the Thanksgiving Day game between Port Jervis and Middletown High should, in fact, have been ruled a 14-14 tie and not a 21-14 Port victory on a play that came after official time had elapsed.

Several weeks ago, when the Ulster County Athletic League (UCAL) voted to accept three new teams, the president's office issued a press release one week in advance of the official release date.

All the newspapers honored the release date. This time a local radio station broke the news that John A. Coleman High had been accepted as a new member of the UCAL. A news release posted a week in an inordinate risk. It's simply impossible to keep a secret under these circumstances.

As Hurley put it, "I suppose it's asking too much to have 25 men (mind you) keep a secret. If it were 25 women, well . . . and his voice trailed off.

JUST FOR THE RECORD. Bill Hurley did report on the meeting — the news that there would be a swim-off between Coach Gabriele's fabulous Kingston High school team and the Newburgh Academy Goldbacks next Tuesday at State University in New Paltz. Not a word did he volunteer about the opinions.

Getting back to that Newburgh-Port Jervis fiasco, Al Boyle, chairman of the NYSPHSA, in an opinion to the council, said:

"It is the opinion of the NYSPHSA's Football Committee that the extra time allowed in this football game was just that, extra time; that time in the game had transpired, time had gone out of the game."

"This is by sworn statement by the four officials involved in the ball game," the opinion continued. "It is our opinion that from the league position, the ruling should come down from the league that the ball game should have ended in a tie."

IT ALSO NOTED that a resolution was passed unanimously that the information and opinions presented to the council be kept from the press until certain "sticky conditions" were ironed out.

Athletic Director William J. (Bill) Hurley of Kingston, who is simultaneously furious and cynical about the whole thing, tells us that several factors are involved in the "sticky situation."

For example, if the DUSO League Council should accept the two opinions and rule the game a 14-14 tie, the aggrieved team could appeal the ruling to the Section Nine. It could be carried from there to the New York State Public High School Athletic Association.

"This situation is far from resolved," said Hurley. "It could drag on for a long time."

Hurley was also thankful that the press informed him about the Section 9 tournament pairings for 1970.

"You'd think they'd at least let us know before releasing it to the press," said Hurley. "We don't all subscribe to the same paper."

HERE AGAIN, we're not faulting the reporter. Abborino, who either dug up the facts or had them thrust upon him for the Middletown Record, is a solid professional. He just did his duty and let us not quibble about the grammar.

A letter from the National Alliance of the National Federation of High Schools in Chicago was along the same line. With the same conclusion. It was emphasized that both letters represented opinions not ruling.

The DUSO Council then decided to delay a vote until "certain difficulties" could be "ironed out." The motion to keep the information from the press followed.

WE CONGRATULATE Bob Abborino on his beat and his forgiveness for plagiarizing parts of his article. To the gentlemen of the DUSO's Executive Council, we say this: we hope you learned a lesson. But in the future we plan to shoot from the hip and let the clippings fall where they may.

Spartans, Celts Score

KINGSTON — Spartan Pools rolled to their sixth straight victory in the Over-30 Basketball League, turning back Jack's Barber Shop, 83-73, in a well-played game.

Jack's record is now 3-3. In the other half of the twin bill, Celts nipped Boyle's A.C. to square their record at 3 and 34 Boyle's dipped to 2-3.

Boyle's Naturn and Ronnie Scheffel scored 22 points each for Spartans, who led 40-35 at the half. Bill DuBois added 20 more. But game honors and individual high for the season went to Chick Boice of Jack's, who poured 47 points through the hoop. Not bad for an Over-30er. Bill McCabe dunked 14 points for the losers.

Celts trailed Boyle's 24-26 at halftime, but went ahead 36-33 at the three-quarter and held on for the win.

Three of the Celts were in double figures, led by Champ Holstein's 19 points. Bud Scheffel added 12 and Tom Waters accounted for 14.

On the Boyle's side, Mel Wilkins parlayed his tricky court maneuvers into 17 points and high scoring Jim Ferraro had a modest night with 15 points.

Dear Abby

Learns from Reader

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: Many times you express great wisdom and great compassion in your answers, but at times, I feel that you are still hung up on some cruel traditions of our culture which are hypocritical and sick. In this instance, I am referring to the example of the young girl who wished to have a complete wedding in spite of the fact that she became a mother at 16 and is raising her own 5-year-old daughter.

I think you were wise to suggest that she not use the daughter in the wedding, but why in the mercy of God, would you suggest this girl brand herself on her wedding day with an off-colored white or pastel wedding gown for a mistake she made five years ago?

If you recommend that we single out the past virtues or mistakes of the bride, then why not also recommend that the groom should wear a black suit if he is pure and a black suit if he is not pure? In all fairness, we should invite the entire congregation, including the minister, to wear proper attire as to whether or not they were virgins when they were married. Then, we would not heap all the humiliation upon the bride on the most important day of her life as she is forced to march down the aisle displaying her "colors."

Isn't it about time that we stop making young brides wear "the scarlet letter" on their wedding day? After all, how many of those innocent looking brides wearing pure white gowns actually have the right to wear such signs of purity?

Fiendishly, we like to brand the ones who got caught, who in most cases, have already suffered enough. When will we ever learn?

Sincerely,
Paul Whipple, Minister
Faith United Methodist Church
Kent, Ohio

DEAR REVEREND WHIPPLE: Some never learn. But I have learned from you. Thank you for your fine, illuminating letter.

DEAR ABBY: You had a letter in your column signed "NAIVE IN NEBRASKA." She said that after her elderly mother's death she went to visit a woman who her mother had described as a "frequent visitor" who had been kind to her during her illness. (She'd come every Sunday, with a piece of cake, and read the Bible to her.) In this woman's home she saw some of her mother's precious "antiques."

She was astonished, and wanted to warn others that there were women who made it their business to routinely visit the sick and elderly and "admire" some of their bric-a-brac just enough to get the ailing person to make them a "gift" of a few pieces before dying.

I would like to quote something from our church bulletin for NAIVE IN NEBRASKA to see: "The test of a people is how it behaves toward the old. It is easy to love children. Even tyrants and dictators made a point of being fond of children. But the affection and care of the old, the incurable, the helpless are the true gold mines of a culture."

— Abraham J. Heschel.

seem expected to render services out of love — for nothing, but strangers demand a price. Too bad NAIVE IN NEBRASKA didn't know it. It may have inclined her to take better care of her mother.

LOUISVILLE, KY
READER

DEAR ABBY: In reply to NAIVE IN NEBRASKA who felt that another had used insincere means to acquire some of her deceased mother's lovely antiques. I hope it taught NAIVE that she should go now to cheer and take care of her remaining elderly relatives while they are still alive. And that goes for the ones she doesn't think have any antiques. (You never know.)

I, a young girl, have many elderly relatives whom I take time to visit. Don't put me on the back. I get something from them. A bit of folk humor, a smile, or the wisdom of someone who has been around many years. That's thanks enough. Abby, any indication that someone cares is worth more to a shut in than a thing that sits mute on a shelf and needs to be dusted.

Webs to Catch the Eclipse

HOLLYWOOD (UPI)—One of the most spectacular and rare happenings of nature, a total eclipse of the sun, will be covered live and at length by the three commercial television networks March 7.

The daytime Saturday broadcast of the eclipse, which will cut a path over Mexico across the Gulf and up the Eastern Coast of the United States, will be seen in color.

NBC-TV, which plans to originate its coverage from near the small village of Miahuatlan in the southern coastal part of Mexico, has scheduled a 90-minute broadcast, starting at noon EST. ABC-TV and CBS-TV will

Moon Casts Shadow

The rarity of the phenomenon to be covered is indicated by the fact that it will be roughly another half century before another major eclipse is visible from the United States. A solar eclipse occurs when the moon passes directly in front of the sun and casts its shadow on the earth.

On this particular upcoming occasion, nearly all areas of the continental United States will be able to see a partial eclipse. But on the East Coast will be total or near total.

New York City, for example, is expected to experience a 96 per cent eclipse. In Savannah, Ga., and Norfolk, Va., it will be 10 per cent. But in Portland, Ore., will be about 19 per cent.

For those who watch an eclipse in person rather than on video, there can be the danger of injury to one's eyes unless precautions are taken. Very dark filters, for instance, are considered the kind of minimum requirement to help avoid harm.

There Is Beauty Too

But there is beauty too in this awesome event. Robert Wussler, executive producer of CBS-TV's eclipse program, observes: "When the moon comes between the sun and the earth, seconds. Birds and animals become suddenly quiet. A brilliant red ring surrounds the moon, and the brightest stars and planets appear in the sky. It's a breathtaking sight."

NBC-TV executive producer Robert Northshield, meanwhile, is enthused about the Mexican origin point for his coverage. Says Northshield: "It is virtually the first point of land that the path of totality of the eclipse will cross as the shadow of the moon sweeps in from the South Pacific. He adds the totality will last longer than anywhere in the United States."

At ABC-TV, the network notes: "There will be aerial photography to bring in a clear picture of the eclipse to viewers if weather conditions are such that it cannot be seen from the ground."

lead a trump at trick two with the idea that eventually he would get around to a diamond. The average expert would come up with a far better play. He would play the ace of clubs and a club to the king. Then he would discard his last club on the king of spades, ruff dummy's last club and lead a trump. If West held the singleton ace of hearts, he would be caught in an end play and forced to lead a diamond up to South's king-jack or give South a ruff and discard.

This play wouldn't work, because West held both trumps and would simply get out of the lead with the deuce. Sidney found a "lucky" way to make the hand. He decided that East's three-spade bid had to be based on a heart void. Thus, the simple play wouldn't work, but maybe a swindle would. He led the jack of hearts at trick two. West shouldn't have ducked but West did. Now Sidney developed his end play, threw West in with the ace of trumps and made the slam.

City Beat

By HUGH REYNOLDS

Freeman City Hall Reporter

WE'VE HEARD the question time and time again, "Just what did the aldermen accomplish with those two meetings on the new city hall?"

The aldermen, of course, accomplished nothing with the new city hall. The question now is, "What did the aldermen DO to city hall."

The consensus seems to be that the new city hall project is definitely in jeopardy. There is a growing suspicion among the aldermen who voted for the purchase of the land and the $900,000 bond issue last year that there's something wrong with the whole deal.

There is still a great deal of confusion over why two meetings were held on the project with little hope either time of passing the plans.

We had said in last week's column that Ed Norton, the temporary chairman must have known he was beaten when he walked into the first meeting on Feb. 19. There was no vote at that first meeting but it was figured that Norton was down 8-4 with Mike Perry, Emilio Primo, Cliff Sinsabaugh and John Heitzman voting to approve the plans.

They met again on Feb. 24 and at least got a vote, even if it was negative, Norton announced after a brief recess that there were only two signatures on the committee report and that therefore there was no committee report. Three signatures from the five members were needed.

Sinsabaugh then moved to relieve the committee of its duties, a motion seconded by Primo. That motion went down 8-4. The four voting in favor were Primo, Perry, Sinsabaugh and Heitzman.

There was a cute maneuver after the meeting was adjourned. The press and anyone who had a list of the committee members on Perry's city hall committee knew by process of elimination who signed the committee report. There are five members on that committee: Perry, Primo, Mrs. Flo Ludlow, Bernie Sims and Ed Roux. Mrs. Ludlow, Sims and Roux did not sign the committee report, leaving the two guys who did.

Just to make it official, we went over (along with Ira Warren) to ask Louis DeCicco, the city clerk, who the two were who signed the committee report. DeCicco asked Norton if he wanted to release the names of the signers. Norton refused to release them reasoning that since three signatures were needed to approve the committee report and only two signed it that there was no committee report. DeCicco is standing there with the thing in his fist, but Norton says it doesn't exist. Sounded like something out of 1984.

A NUMBER of things don't jive about these two meetings. First of all, Norton knew he was beaten both times. There can be no doubt about that. Norton is a fair to middlin' country politician. He's learned the basics, first of which is you count noses before you stick your neck out. Norton laid his neck right on the chopping block knowing full well that he had no chance to pass the legislation he was pushing. Put it this way, if the news media, regarded by most politicians as a natural enemy, can come up with an accurate vote in advance, Norton certainly could have.

Norton wound up as some kind of a sacrificial lamb. Keep in mind that no politician sheds an ounce of blood without getting a quart back.

Norton has been a fairly strong advocate of a new city hall downtown. We understand that he was trying to advance the cause of the new hall by holding those meetings and getting the plans approved.

The result, we hear, was quite the opposite. The people who aren't laughing at the aldermen are burned up at them. The aldermen aren't laughing at all but some of them are burned. Even some of them who voted for the purchase of the land from urban renewal and approved the $900,000 bond issue last June for the construction of the new building.

The word now is that if the plans for the new hall were to go up for approval at the March meeting they would be defeated something like 8-5.

That may explain in part why Bob Gallo, the alderman-at-large, took a decidedly low profile approach to the whole situation when he returned from vacation on Tuesday night.

Gallo spent the first few hours Wednesday morning finding out what happened and in the process found out that city hall was slowly slipping down the drain, thanks in part to Norton and company's two abortive meetings. Gallo reasoned that a public shootout with Norton would do nothing for a situation that was already rapidly deteriorating. So he cooled it. That may have been the best maneuver in the past ten days.

Gallo is also trying to find out if the city can really get title to that urban renewal land when it wants it. Right now it looks a bit vague. The agency apparently doesn't have title to the land but its director assures everyone that the land will be delivered when the city wants it. Sounds like typical urban renewal doubletalk to us. That land has been cleared for over a year.

As we said, the effect of those two meetings by the Council seems to have been to put the city hall project in jeopardy. We just wonder if there isn't some connection between cause and effect.

DOWN THE HALL — News out of the city clerk's office has been slowed to a trickle. Louis DeCicco, the new clerk, is very nice about it but says that he is working for 13 aldermen and doesn't want to get in dutch with them by releasing such common council agenda items as committee reports, resolutions or communications. We can sympathize with Louie to a point — that point being where suppression of legitimate news begins. Louie and the aldermen might keep in mind that they're paid by the public and are spending public funds.

PARTY LINE — Young Republicans will feté Jimmy Rapp and Mrs. Doris Stang, (the late mayor's wife) to night at the Gov. Clinton Hotel for service to the party. They couldn't have picked a better pair. Jim, we understand, may be coming back as a GOP committeeman in the Fourth Ward.

Armed Peace in Coast City

SANTA BARBARA, Calif. (UPI) — Riot-trained National Guard troops armed with rifles and fixed bayonets cleared the streets of the strife-torn student community next to the University of California campus here late Friday. Violence subsided for the first time in four nights.

Although there were only minor incidents 83 persons were arrested, mostly on unlawful assembly charges, bringing the four-day total to 141. Three men were charged with assault in breaking the window of a National Guard jeep and another man was held on possession of fire bombs.

About 500 of the 1,000 troops ordered into the area by Gov. Ronald Reagan made a series of sweeps through the Isla Vista community, routing small groups of students and street people. There were no injuries. "Most of us were just standing around. The Guardsmen would march in and order everybody to leave. When they wouldn't they would hold them until highway patrolmen could arrest them and take them away," one student said.

A light rain fell intermittently as motorists were stopped by squads of Guardsmen at intersections along the troubled area and a helicopter hovered overhead, adding searchlight illumination to the scene.

Deployment of the Guardsmen into the area brought jeers and shouted obscenities from nearby apartment windows but there were no mass gatherings in the cordoned-off area, as on previous nights.

Maj. Gen. Charles A. Ott, commander of the force, said the guardsmen had ammunition but their weapons were not loaded.

At least 141 persons have been arrested since the disturbances began Tuesday. Twenty-seven police officers and sheriff's deputies were injured, four requiring hospitalization, and 10 demonstrators suffered injuries. A university employee was wounded in the shoulder by a campus policeman when the guard thought the man was attempting to run a roadblock.

A county-imposed shutdown to sunup curfew was extended to the UC Santa Barbara campus by Chancellor Vernon I. Cheadle. The chancellor also declared that any member of the student body, faculty or staff convicted of participating in the rampages would be suspended.

A petition drive on the campus, headed by Harvey Levin, 19, a sophomore student, collected 4,208 signatures—about one-third of the student body—condemning violence by police and youths as self-defeating.

Reagan has directed the state attorney general to investigate whether William M. Kunstler, attorney for the Chicago Seven, had crossed state lines to incite a riot when he spoke at UCSB Wednesday afternoon. Kunstler addressed more than 5,000 of the 13,800 students and exhorted them to make the defendants at the Chicago trial a symbol.

Kunstler did not advocate violence in his afternoon speech. The six-hour rampage in which a $250,000 branch of the Bank of America was set afire began that evening.

Meanwhile, in South Hadley, Mass., black students from five colleges seized seven buildings at Mount Holyoke College. They increased black enrollment, charged the all-girl school with financial aid and a black studies program. The students held the buildings for 14 hrs. without violence.

Two Workers Die in Plunge

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Two construction workers plummeted nine stories to their deaths when parts of the upper floors of an apartment building under construction collapsed Friday. Their bodies were found beneath tons of concrete slabs on the ninth floor. The men were working on the top of the 18-story building when the cave-in occurred.

The building is part of a federally financed low-income project being built in the city's East Liberty section.

The coroner's office said the two men killed were Arthur Miller and Raymond Baxter, employees of the company engaged in the construction job. Their ages were not given. "The only thing I heard was a boom," said Ellis Jefferson, a laborer working on the 17th floor when the collapse occurred.

Jefferson said 25 to 30 men were working in the building at the time of the cave-in, but officials said all had been accounted for. During the search for the bodies, workers shored up the interior with truckloads of timbers, and police ordered a halt to rail traffic for several hours on nearby tracks to cut down on vibrations.

Officials said they would investigate the cause of the collapse. Workers using searchlights continued removing the wreckage early today to insure against another collapse.

Kidnap Guatemala Foreign Minister

GUATEMALA (AP) — Kidnapers of Guatemala Foreign Minister Alberto Fuentes Mohr gave the government 24 hours today to free a university student in exchange for Fuentes Mohr's release.

The kidnapers' message said Fuentes Mohr, 42, who was seized as he rode home from work Friday night, will be released when the student is turned over to the Mexican Embassy in Guatemala City.

In their ransom message to Guatemala radio stations, the kidnapers said they are members of the Armed Rebel Forces, a Marxist-leaning group that police said attempted to assassinate the director of the Central American country's election council Tuesday. He was wounded slightly.

On Thursday, three persons, including a candidate for Congress from the ruling Revolutionary party, were shot and killed as they put up campaign posters on a downtown street.

But police said the shooting was a gun battle between factions of the Revolutionary party and the right-wing National Liberation Movement.

Fuentes Mohr was seized as a chauffeur was taking him to his home Friday after a meeting with election observers from the Organization of American States.

A government spokesman said the kidnapers forced Mohr's car over to the side of the road and ordered him into their car.

The spokesman did not say whether the kidnapers were armed or how many there were.

"The government is making every effort to obtain the freedom of the minister," the spokesman said. This was taken as an indication that the university student, identified as Jose Giron Calvillo, might be released. He was arrested Thursday but the government did not say what he was charged with.

Two Fires Demolish Packing Barn, House

MILTON (UPI) — A huge packing barn in Milton Friday night on the Gary Hepworth farm, and also claimed a private dwelling on Route 209 in Marblington.

The Milton fire drew about 200 firemen to the scene, and all that remained this morning was the charred concrete block hull of the storage barn. Contents of the barn were packing equipment and a large number of apples.

Four firemen were reported injured, none seriously, as they fought to contain the fire. Highland and Marlboro firemen helped the Milton company. Milton Chief Phil Martin was in charge.

The storage barn, one of the largest in Ulster County, was totally destroyed. Firemen checked over the remains this morning for evidence of the cause of the blaze.

During the height of the fire, hose had to be put across Route 9W and traffic detoured. The building was locally known as part of the Hepworth Farm Market.

In the Marblington fire, the private home of James Terwilliger was demolished by an undetermined cause. Firemen from Kripplush, High Falls, Stone Ridge, and Accord responded to the call of a neighbor, who noticed the flames. The building was totally engulfed in flames when Kripplush fire chief Ronald Roosa reached the scene. There was little danger of the fire spreading, as the nearest structure was Bradley's Service Station across Route 209.

James Terwilliger, his wife, and two children, were moved to the home of his brother nearby. The two children were at home with a baby sitter when the fire broke out.

Tex Larabey: The Insomniac's Insomniac

By LEI

It's a blustery, cold, winter night in Kingston. Usually, most folks are home snug, but something special is happening and hundreds of people have lined up along Broadway.

You might think a Joe Namath or Paul McCartney is arriving, when, in fact, the milling crowd has braved the frigid weather to see Tex Larabey, a man people had often laughed at without meaning to be unkind.

They laughed because the tangle-tongued disk jockey of local radio seemed born to produce chuckles. His billing as "nightingale of the prairies," his 10 gallon hats, three-tone cowboy boots, upbeat country songs and perpetual battle with his mother tongue made him almost a parody of every "Hee Haw" star rolled into one.

He Outdrew Gish

Then, last month, Tex drew a crowd four times the size of Lillian Gish, the legendary "Great Lady of the Theater," who had preceded him onstage at the Community Theatre here short weeks before. The Gish show, expected to come in as a winner, was a flop. Tex, starring in an in-person country show accompanying a film about Johnny Cash, proved socko. Suddenly, people stopped laughing and started asking, "Just who IS this Tex Larabey?"

While audiences have been laughing, Tex has been chortling, too—all the way to the bank. Ensnared in the hectic atmosphere of a bustling radio station, Tex is just as good-natured, language-bending and homey as he seems on the air. What doesn't come through your home speaker is that the "nightingale of the prairies" is a shrewd judge and dedicated promoter of country music: a man who purposely picked the Hudson Valley as THE place to sing his songs and raise his family.

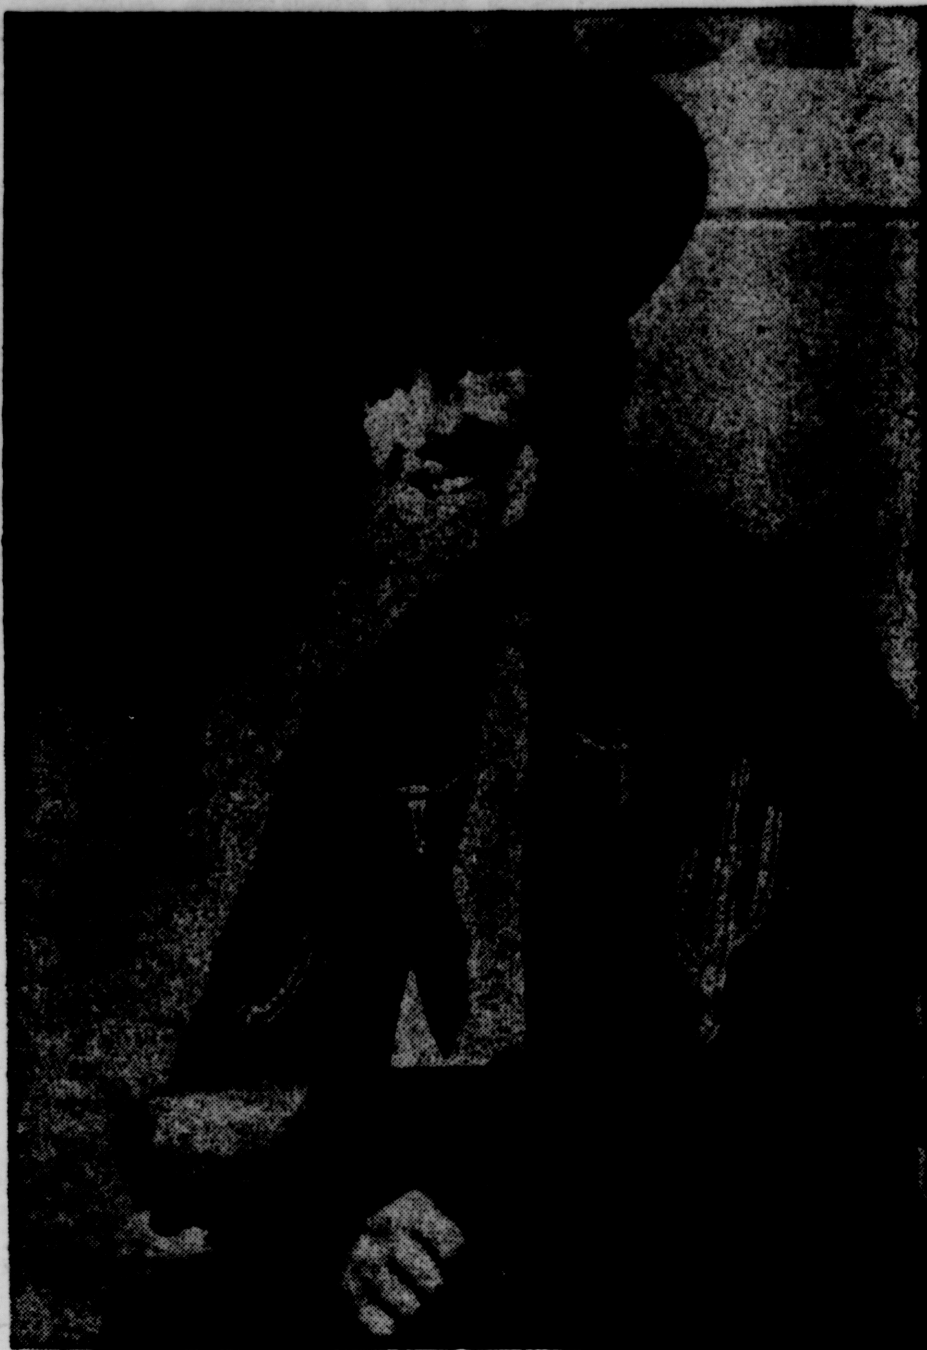

Larabey is a big man—one who'd sit tall in a saddle, and heaviest these days than his formal publicity photos show. Weight notwithstanding, he still enjoys good food and the big, hot, heavily-sweetened cups of coffee he gulps to keep awake in the frenzied weeks when he's lucky to get two hours of sleep a night.

Born in Springfield, Mass., he arrived in Kingston by way of the Carolinas, where he was attracted as a small boy to the country sound. A trumpet player in his youth, he was forced to pick another instrument when he lost his lip. He chose the guitar, along with country music, which he preferred to the pop music of the day. And, from that day to this, he's waged an uphill fight to attract people to what he calls "the wonderful world of country music."

Tex Has 'Vocability'

Tex makes up for his abbreviated formal education with what he likes to call "vocability." A man with an active mind, he never tires in his unceasing dedication to his type of music. He arrived in Kingston in 1959 to work for the Greyhound Van Lines and local representative, John Rapp; credits Rapp with being a big help in aiding him in his project of bringing C&W to Kingston. Tex still drives the big diesel rigs part time, but lately (and he says this with a satisfied grin) his singing book-

PAW Turning to Experimental Theatre

Experimental theatre with a cast culled from across the U.S. is the next project for that ever-active organization, Performing Arts of Woodstock.

The PAW group turns to experimental theatre with its production of "Gem of the Ocean" and "Pickpocket," two original one-act plays due to take over the stage at Woodstock's Town Hall (next to the Fire House on Tinker Street) on Fridays and Saturdays, March 6, 7, 13, 14, 20, 21, with curtain at 8:30 p.m.

Author of the double bill is Ron Radice, a Newark native who now lives in Woodstock. Area audiences have seen him as an actor in such PAW productions as The Bench, The Banana Thief, As I Lay Dying, Riders to the Sea, and The Heads Tell It Like It Is. "Gem" and "Pickpocket" are his first play-writing entries. PAW feels they will be runaway successes; is inordinately proud to be presenting "one of their own," inasmuch as Radice serves on the group's board of directors.

Wide Ranging Cast

The works by the New Jersey-New York author will be performed by a cast that has migrated to this area from the Midwest and other parts of the East.

Rick Richards, who plays Man No. 2 in "Pickpocket," hails from Madison, Wis.; majored in English and acted with the University Theater Group at University of Wisconsin. At Edgewood College there, he had the title role in Shakespeare's "Richard III," and played in a wide variety of productions from Chekov to Ionesco; also acted at Madison's Children's Theater. Once a reporter for Kalamazoo, Muskegon and Grand Rapids newspapers and a programmer for a utilities company in Wisconsin, he is currently employed as a Technical Writer for IBM locally.

Edward Kramer, who plays

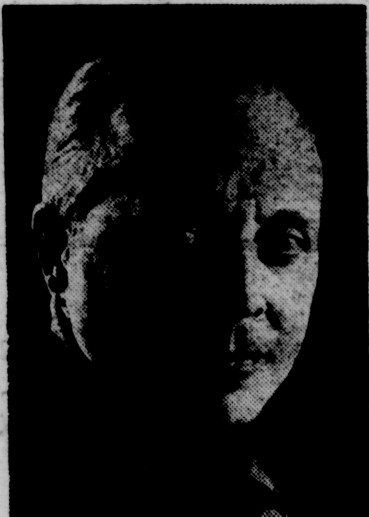

Man No. 1 in the identity conflict that makes up the plot of "Pickpocket," is a native of the Bronx; graduated from SUNY at Albany with a BA in Theatre. Awarded the 1969 Agnes E. Futterer Award at the State University for "Most Valuable Contribution" to the school's theatre, he played many roles on campus and also at the Rockland Barn Theatre. In addition to acting, he has had much experience as stage manager and with sound, lights, and scenery construction. Now a resident of Mt. Tremper, he teaches fifth and sixth grades at Phoenicia Elementary School.

Mark Weinberg, cast as the

GERALD GRIFFIN has been cast as the Colonel in Ron Radice's original play, "Gem of the Ocean."

Revival of a High Falls Showpiece

17—THE DAILY FREEMAN, FEBRUARY 28, 1970

LOOKING LIKE THE MOVIE SET for "Alice's Restaurant," the one-time High Falls church above bears little resemblance to the communal environs of the film church in its interior. Behind its old-fashioned exterior, the church has become a modern home, studio and workshop for talented and productive artist, Barbara White.

LIVING QUARTERS CREATED from former church include this well-equipped workshop where Barbara White creates unusual wallpaper, and kitchen area, visible through door.

Ever since "Alice's Restaurant"—the film that immortalized Arlo Guthrie and his friends, Alice and Ray Brock — began making the rounds of area theatres, more than a few people have had a hankering to buy a deconsecrated church; turn it into a home.

Artist Barbara White succumbed to the same dream long ago; has been creating her starkly modern wallpaper designs behind the old-fashioned exterior of a one-time church on Mohonk Road in High Falls for more than a year.

Outside, Barbara's church looks strikingly similar to the movie set for the Guthrie film. The February snow that surrounds it has the same texture as the snow in Stockbridge, Mass., where the film church was located. But inside, the resemblance ends. For behind its old-fashioned facade, the White church has become a comfortable home, combining an up-to-the-minute kitchen with living quarters that derive their charm from a mixture of antique and 20th century furnishings. Nor does an uncommitted life style reign here. Artist White also included studio and workshop space in her remodeling plans where she works round the clock on numerous projects and commissions.

A Look of Fantasy

High ceilings and soaring rafters give this "home" a look that is as roomy as the great outdoors. And there is fantasy, too, in this showpiece house with its gingerbread shingled exterior and huge windows with broad panes of glass.

It is impossible to walk into the White residence without looking up. From the high, pointed roof, modern light globes and bright Japanese lanterns have been suspended against the criss-cross background of beautiful old beams. At night, when the lamps are lit, there is something that really lifts the spirit, the same sensation one might have on a first visit to St. Patrick's or St. Peter's.

But there is comfort, charm and color, as well. No less than the place where it is located—in the beautiful village that is High Falls—this house is full of adventure. From its windows the nearby woods undergo nature's seasonal changes and, in winter, the cozy warmth of an old iron stove keep the icicles outside at bay.

In redesigning the church into a home artist White has avoided a barnlike look by intricately organizing her space. Overhead the ceiling sweeps high, beneath every inch of space has been THROUGH FIVE-PANED WINDOW artist White can gaze on the thick-leaved woodlands of summer or the ice-covered rocks of winter. A long counter fronts the window where altar formerly stood. Counter was once the bulwark of financial transactions in an old hardware store.

AREA WHERE PEWS once stood has been converted into comfortable living room with old-fashioned elegance. Antique rocker and lamps vie with modern paintings, Japanese lantern lights and graceful old rafters for a visitor's attention. (All photos by Freeman photographer Bob Haines)

His Motto Is Still Remembered Today

By JOAN L. WOINOSKI

"Father walked casually through the store's music department one afternoon many years ago and bought a grand piano for Mother, a violin for my brother Arthur, two harps — one for my sister Rachel and one for me — and a cello for himself."

So began a conversation on a recent wintry afternoon with Miss Helen Sheldon, daughter of a renowned business philosopher and prominent lecturer, the late Dr. Arthur Frederick Sheldon.

The tete-a-tete took place in the sitting room of the Sheldon estate at 194 West Chestnut Street in Kingston. The still fair-haired Miss Sheldon, stately erect, her dog "Black Rod" at her feet, captivated her audience with stories of her ancestors, in general, and her father, in particular.

Believed in Usefulness

Dr. Sheldon was a many-faceted personality whose life was based on the belief there was "just one reason why any individual has any right to take up any room on this planet: his usefulness to human society."

A tall man with blue eyes and soft voice, Dr. Sheldon was the son of a prosperous Michigan farmer whose farm was so self-sustaining that "kerosene and salt" were the only items the family ever had to buy. Educated in country schools, he was the first adventurer to cross Wyoming on a bicycle, peddling books as he pedaled his bike to pay for his education. From "Happy Homes and Hearts that Make Them" — a collection of sentiment for lonely cowboys — to successful encyclopedia sales for the Werner Company, to his own publishing firm in Chicago, his successful career mounted, while within his mind profound ideas were brewing.

Dr. Sheldon was the founder of Sheldon School of Salesmanship in Chicago, Ill., which was similar in many respects to the Dale Carnegie courses of today. His school boasted an enrollment of one-quarter million members; had many Fuller Brush and Good-year Rubber salesmen as alumni.

Filled with ideas and ideals of service to his fellowman, Arthur Sheldon talked to church groups, school students, service clubs, women's organizations all economic system, resulting in its breakdown."

Originated Motto

Dr. Sheldon was the originator of the Rotary motto, "He profits most who serves best," and was the "pivot" which caused the international organization to become a "service" club. In 1943, a posthumous tribute was presented to his wife and with a relentless belief in a tested plan of ethics which he had literally worked out with mathematical precision to "prove" its worth and credence.

Arthur Sheldon's thirst for psychology was echoed by his wife whose best friend, Margaret Washburn, held the chair of psychology at Vassar College and was the first woman to be admitted to that position.

Sheldon's words, "Father came to Kingston on weekends and most of Mother and Father's courtship took place on the Mary Powell."

Married at Homestead

The couple was married in the parlor of the Griffiths' homestead where Miss Sheldon still resides and where family portraits decorate the walls and echoes of parties past still linger hauntingly.

Because of his extensive speaking engagements, the couple, along with their three children, Helen, Arthur Jr. and Rachel (who is now Mrs. Wilfred St. Claire-Fisher of Texas), travelled so widely that Miss Sheldon admitted, "It wasn't until high school graduation that I took an examination because we never were long enough in one place."

Dr. Sheldon died Dec. 21, 1935 and is buried in Kingston under a special Rotary marker. A professional tribute to his rare accomplishments was acknowledged in a letter to Helen Sheldon from J. D. Crummey, FMC Corp., San Jose, Calif.: "In 1904 I incorporated a little business with $15,000 and under the inspiration of your father's course now do business of about $1,250,000,000 with branches all over the world."

Miss Sheldon maintains her father's message of "service" is the answer to today's problems for both youth and adults alike, and is imperative for this country's survival.

THE SHELDON FAMILY ORCHESTRA

over the country on a schedule that would have crushed a less-dedicated man. His quotations spoke volumes then even as they do today: "Only the science of right conduct towards others pays." "No sale is profitable unless it is profitable to buyer as well as seller." "The age-old enemy of service — selfishness — is the cancer eating at the vitals of our daughter Helen by Kingston Rotary Club on the occasion of the organization's 50th anniversary. The tribute was written by Kingston Rotarian Frederic Snyder, lecturer and world traveler, who suggested this interview.

Throughout his life, Dr. Sheldon had an insatiable interest in human relations and community development, along

Mrs. Sheldon was the daughter of Francis H. Griffiths, proprietor of a produce business on Hasbrouck Avenue. A fine pianist, she had attended Metropolitan College of Music, the first college of music in the U.S. and was introduced to her future husband by a Michigan roommate from Mr. Sheldon's hometown area. Such intense philosophy, presented in so simple and practical a manner, serves to remind us that the Golden Rule could still serve us as well today as it did in the past. Dr. Sheldon was a man who put the Golden Rule into action. And the world — which seems to be trying everything else these days — might do very well to give the "service" he crusaded a chance.

'Trojan Women' Due Here

2,500 Years Ago, the Greeks Used Stage to Protest Wars

"Trojan Women," a 2,500-year-old Greek tragedy by Euripides, will be presented in Kingston Tuesday night (March 3) by the College Theater Guild of the State University College at Potsdam.

Sponsored by the Student Government Organization at Ulster County Community College, the play will be staged at J. Watson Bailey School beginning at 8:15 p.m. The event is open to the public and there is no admission charge.

This production of the play was selected by the State University of New York Festival of the Arts Committee as one of the three best productions of the year produced by theater groups on the campuses of the State University.

Among First Critics

The play's anti-war theme is as relevant today as it was 2,500 years ago. Euripides wrote "Trojan Women" as a comment on the futility of war. Greece was a war-oriented country and this play was one of the first overt criticisms of government policy.

But, more than politics, "Trojan Women" is art. It combines the art forms of music, dance and drama. Through the combined talents of Mrs. Dorothy Gmuc as director, Miss Sharon Bouck as choreographer, David Huntley as composer and the members of the cast, there is a recreation of primitive orgiastic emotionalism, characteristic of ancient Greek productions.

"Trojan Women" also offers much in the way of philosophy. In primitive Greek culture it was believed that death was really a beginning, and tragedy was viewed as a glorious experience. One's supreme desire was to die a hero's death.

Through the intertwining of these several dimensions of the production, "Trojan Women" offers the audience an opportunity for complete involvement.

The cast of the Potsdam College Theater Guild production is led by Miss Jackie Campbell as Hecuba, and William LaBarge as Talthybius. Sets and costumes for the play were designed by Professor Joseph Flauto.

REHEARSING SCENE from "Trojan Women" are Margaret Irving (L), Potsdam College senior, and Jacqueline Campbell, graduate student at that college. In the Euripides' play, Miss Irving portrays Andromache and Miss Campbell is Hecuba. The touring Potsdam Theater Guild brings its production of "Women" to J. Watson Bailey School here next Tuesday night under sponsorship of the Student Government Organization of Ulster County Community College.

Faier's Light Boxes: Electronic Marvels of Art

19—THE DAILY FREEMAN, FEBRUARY 28, 1970

ARTIST BILLY FAIER'S heart-shaped light box almost seems to thump with a human-like beat as it vibrates to ruby-red cones of light.

DOUBLED RIBBON of light makes for lively work of art reminiscent of an isolated shape from a Dali painting.

Black-and-white photographs cannot begin to capture the personality and shape or the vibrant spirit of the psychedelic colors of Woodstock artist Billy Faier's light boxes. Only within the darkened confines of his recently opened gallery in the art colony (The Light Box on Tinker Street) does a viewer feel the full impact of color so dazzling in its beauty that each boxed work of art summons up the wind and sun, the sea and forest grove.

Faier, long a folksinger and composer of wide reputation, still sings for his supper frequently. But two years ago, he turned to creating light boxes of distracting uniqueness to fill in the breakfast and lunch hours. So successful and well received were they in exhibits locally and in Manhattan that Faier felt the climate was propitious to open his own gallery dedicated to the display of his work—work that unites art and technology so well, buyers are lining up for hearts that thump, eyeballs that roll and stare, angelfish that swim placidly through green waters, and designs that remind of nothing so much as a tight celluloid collar set aquiver by an ancient Adam's apple.

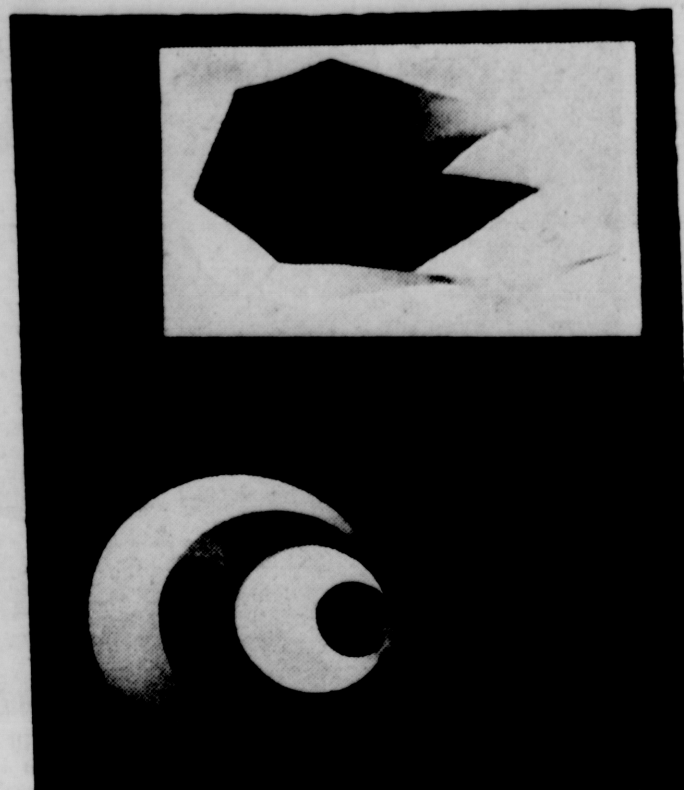

Faier's light boxes are more than mechanized gadgets that seem to have cantankerous lives of their own. They are awe-inspiring and beautiful in their glowing, blinking, roiling colors. They are symbols of a mysterious power that inhabits a darkened room. They are the ultimate in kinetic art. Electronic marvels that jiggle the eye and blow the mind, they are modern day examples of the artist's relationship with the machine down through a lengthy history. Some seem to whirl like the blades of a helicopter; others are so subtle and muted they recall a spring morn.

Works That Come Alive

Interaction and innovation are the most apt words to use in describing Faier's work. And each work seems to be alive with both. Muted clouds of fine dust seem to boil up in some; others sparkle with cones of color.

Long loops of red, green, yellow and blue soar out into graceful swirls. Viewers are immediately enamored with the beauty of the light boxes; many take one home to give individualism and a futurist look to living room or den decor.

What artist Faier captures in his boxes is the illusion of motion, and a visit to his gallery, set above the bank of Woodstock's Tannery Brook, is an art experience that goes beyond paint and canvas, stone and metal sculpture, to machines that evoke — and provoke — human feelings. Folksinger-artist Faier uses his talent to produce imagery in poetic drawings . . . and his art makes of his gallery a magical wonderland of pulsating color and light. (T.G.)

LIKE A ROUGH-HEWN diamond glowing above and a sparkling eyeball of a sphere below, this light box juxtaposes diverse modern shapes that intrigue.

UNITING ART AND TECHNOLOGY, this Faier light box reminds some viewers of tropical fish as swim in a tank. (Photos by Freeman photographer Bob Haines)

From the Kerosene Projector to Marshall McLuhan

D.W. Griffith. "Trip to the Moon." Charlie Chaplin. "Nanook of the North." Eisenstein. "Liquid Jazz." Godard. "Computer Art." Kurosawa. "This is Marshall McLuhan."

Films and film-makers from the days of the magic lantern show to the 21st Century will be included in a new Orange County Community College continuing education course on the history and development of films as an art form.

The course, co-sponsored by New York State Council on the Arts, will meet for 10 Wednesday evenings starting March 4 in Harriman Hall at OCCC, Middletown. Tuition is $25.

Award-Winning Instructor Conducting the film class will be Mrs. Mary Halleck of Bloomingburg, who has won many awards for her films, including an Academy Award nomination for "The Mural on Our Street," short documentary on a group art project in New York City. This week, her latest picture, "Mini-Movie-Makers," was screened at a Young Film-makers Conference in New York City.

The OCCC class will start with an actual presentation of a magic lantern show, using an antique kerosene projector and century-old hand painted slides. During subsequent weeks students will view many rarely-seen, but widely-discussed and appreciated classics. One of the earlier films made, George Melies' "Trip to the Moon" (1902) is a comic fantasy which surprises audiences with its delightful humor and sophistication. Excerpts from the 1916 film "Intolerance" by D.W. Griffith will be shown to highlight this great American genius in his prime.

On March 11 "Potemkin" will be shown; this classic by Eisenstein is universally regarded as one of the most important films in the history of cinema. Japan's Kurosawa, will be represented by his masterpiece, "Ikiru." During April many short films will be screened and discussed, including recent works by Rockland County filmmaker Stan Vanderbeek; Francis Thompson, who made the acclaimed Johnson's Wax film at the New York World's Fair; and Norman McLaren, the Canadian film experimenter.

The course will include guest lectures by film-makers and professionals in the field. On April 8 the class will screen new work by Mark Sadan and Kirk Smallman, and afterward will discuss the films with the filmmakers themselves. These two active young film-makers have been working recently for the Children's Television Workshop, making short films for "Sesame Street," the lively new children's program. Two of the films for the series were made on location in this area: at the Salma farm in Fair Oaks, and at instructor Halleck's farm.

Film-Editor to Guest

Another guest lecturer for the series will be Joan Chaffee, film-editor who has worked extensively in Hollywood and New York. She is currently working on documentaries for television; will bring various examples of editing procedures for a lecture demonstration.

To bring the course into the 21st Century, the class will screen "This is Marshall McLuhan" and discuss this controversial man and his influence in education. In general the class will attempt to provide a forum for viewing and discussing the medium of film and the role of this "lively art" in the modern world, says filmmaker-teacher Halleck.

DESPITE HER FEARS that her daughter will become a smoker, Mary Keyes lights up a cigarette with four-year-old Audrey Lynn on her knee in NET'S "Why You Smoke—A Self-Test." The five-part series was produced in cooperation with the American Cancer Society; will be aired on Channel 17 from Monday, March 2, through Friday, March 6 at 7 p. m.

'Survival 70' Will Examine Environmental Deterioration

Metromedia Television (WNEW on channel 5) will preempt two hours of prime time to broadcast "Survival 70," a special program devoted to examining the nation's polluted environment. This special will be broadcast in early March without commercial announcements.

The program will be divided

Scare Tactics 'Out' During Smoking Test

This week smokers who want to quit will have a chance to examine the reasons they smoke by taking a simple test right in their own living rooms. The American Cancer Society and Channel 17 WJHT are presenting a five part television series to help people stop smoking, Monday, March 2 thru Friday, March 6 from 7 to 8 p.m.

The Cancer Society promises not to use scare tactics. It will simply give a self-test to help smokers understand why they smoke and how they can quit if they really want to.

During the program, viewers will meet three heavy smokers who are employees of the Washington D.C. Gas Light Co. Charles Settle, Mary Keyes and Richard Gillespie are real people who have a problem breaking their habit. They'll take the four part test on the television as viewers answer the questions and score themselves at home.

The psychologist and medical doctor who administer the test will help the three evaluate their answers immediately and help viewers understand what their own answers reveal about their attitudes toward smoking.

Each of the Cancer Society films are half an hour long. For the second part of the hour presentation, "Telecon" will follow-up the "Why You Smoke" series on a local level. Guests from the area's American Cancer Society will be in the Channel 17 studio to answer the phoned-in questions from local smokers. Freal Andrews will be the host.

Griffin Show Big in Vegas

The Merv Griffin TV Show is the biggest hit in Las Vegas.

Griffin has already taped six of his CBS-TV talk shows from Caesars Palace, and the response has been so enthusiastic that he will tape an additional five shows from the plush resort hotel.

The tickets for the Griffin show are distributed at 9:30 each morning for that afternoon's taping. The lines begin to form at 8:30 a.m., and by 10 the tickets are gone.

The show is taped in the hotel's main showroom, which seats 1,200 people, and for 1,200 Las Vegas to get up at 8:30 a.m. for any reason but to gamble is an unprecedented phenomenon.

Youthful Talent in Spotlight

Youthful talent takes to the spotlight's glare in two upcoming entertainment events. The young entertainers have appeared previously throughout the area during many charity and civic affairs.

Among the featured acts in the winter show of the East Fishkill Lions Club will be a special revue by more than 30 youngsters who make up Estelle & Alfonso's Performer's Club. When the show is presented by the Lions at Van Wyck High School on March 3 at 8 p.m., the Performer's Club's young entertainers will be seen and heard in songs, dances, baton twirling, pantomime and comedy. Highlighted will be a fast-paced acrobatic routine of no-handed somersaults and pyramids in which gymnasts stand three high on each others' shoulders.

Later in the month, Estelle & Alfonso will stage their much-heralded Olympics, during which pre-school boys and girls will participate in precision routines and special gymnastic demonstrations. How the very young keep physically fit will be demonstrated by dancers in a number based on the signs of the zodiac with the music of Aquarius as background. The Olympics, to be held Sunday, March 15 at 2 p.m. in Poughkeepsie High School, will also see competition for gold, silver and bronze medals in acrobatics and baton twirling.

FANNY BRICE (Barbara Streisand) pokes her head through a window dividing her mother's bar from the parlor of their apartment in a scene from "Funny Girl." The lavish musical, co-starring Omar Sharif, is now in its fourth week at Kingston's Community Theater.

STEVE McQUEEN, Rupert Crosse and Mitch Vogel take a trip to Memphis in a yellow Winton Flyer in "The Reivers." The film, set in turn-of-century South, is the current attraction at the Orpheum Theater in Saugerties; has a plot based on a string of whoppers by William Faulkner.

MOVIES

Funny Girl

Barbra Streisand, the girl with the voice of a thrush, is back in the movie version of the stage musical that made her a household word. And she leaves nothing out of "Funny Girl." Now in its fourth week at Kingston's Community Theater, the lavish musical is filled with gags, production numbers, vaudeville mugging, and tearstained love scenes.

When the jokes are good, Barbra proves a talented comedienne. When the musical numbers are inspired ("People," "Don't Rain on My Parade"), she excels with her meticulous emotional phrasing until the lyrics seem to glow from the screen.

Mostly a backstage biography of Fanny Brice, with Barbra as Fanny, "Funny Girl" also has Omar Sharif as Nick Arnstein, Fanny's hard-luck gambler husband. In the process, Fanny follows the fairy-tale dream trail of an unprepossessing kid who rose from the ghetto to the Ziegfeld Follies through a combination of brass and talent. Streisand looks enough like Brice to be her daughter. As the homely girl who made it big on Broadway, she doesn't disappoint her fans in this film.

The Reivers

"The Reivers," now at the Orpheum in Saugerties, is a raucous, good-natured ode to the end of innocence, in the vein of later Huckleberry Finn. Based on a novel by William Faulkner, it spins a mellow tale about an 11-year-old lad named Lucius McCaslin and his wild adventures on a trip to Memphis in 1905. As it turns out, "The Reivers" is one of the year's most pleasant movie experiences.

Young Lucius (Mitch Vogel) spends most of his time hanging out with an employee of his grandfather's named Boon Hogganbeck (Steve McQueen). When Grandfather leaves town for a few days, Boon borrows his prize possession — a gleaming and glorious yellow Winton Flyer; drives down to the big city with Lucius and a genial black man.

Before the trip is over, Lucius has gotten an eyeful of life and been involved in the most exciting horse race anybody ever saw.

A charming film of the turn-of-the-century South, this movie boasts uniformly excellent performances throughout.

Easy Rider

Two motorcyclists (Peter Fonda and Dennis Hopper) go cross-country trying to find out what The Establishment's all about in this film now playing for a third week at Kingston's Mayfair Theatre.

Fonda and Hopper show rare acting-writing-directing-producing talents in this low budget, well-done movie that has more youth-appeal than most. The Establishment comes in for some hard, critical looks the younger generation is bound to cheer. Those viewers who are over 30 (or even over 40) will find that a tremendous performance by Jack Nicholson and the scenery provide enough distinction to make the film worthwhile.

Midnight Cowboy

A smash hit to be reckoned with is this fresh-looking, splashy but sensitive film — now on screen at Poughkeepsie's Juliet Theatre... and well worth the drive whether you live in Ulster or Dutchess. Alternating between hilarity and sadness, it has memorable performances by Jon Voight and Dustin Hoffman as loners and hustlers in New York.

A fine study of the gap between the glittering dream and reality. To its credit, too, are fine supporting performances, excellent use of score, and overall exciting direction by John Schlesinger, who catches the mood of New York for losers, and utilizes to the hilt the power of film to dazzle the eye and strike at the nerves.

Totally brilliant and not to be missed!

The Sterile Cuckoo

Liza Minnelli's glowing portrayal of a kook is the chief interest in this college-freshmen-romance story that proves enjoyable in most respects.

It scores as an appealing story of first love; is funny and sad by turns; and is sensitively played by Miss Minnelli as one of the loneliest, off-beat girls ever put to film. Wendell Burton is impressive as the earnest, quiet boy of the story.

Audiences can see it currently at two area theaters — Red Hook's Lyceum, and the Rosendale Theater.

Museum Honors Woodstockers With Separate Exhibitions

Ethel Magafan, an artist since early childhood, and Bruce Currie, a musician-turned artist, met and married in Woodstock just after World War II. Over the years, both have gained reputations as painters of superlative talent; reaped high acclaim and many awards along the way.

Their painting styles differ and, outside marriage, they have gone their individualistic ways in the art world; do not labor as a team when the canvases and easels are set up in the studios in which they work on Woodstock's Boggs Hill, where their attractive home traces its lineage to a former and remodeled sheep-barn.

Their individualism has been recognized by the Schenectady Museum which elected to present separate one-man exhibits of their paintings. Both artists will be displaying 25 paintings each in a show to run from Tuesday, March 3 through April 5. A gala reception is planned for the artists at the museum's Turnbull Gallery on March 3 from 5 to 7 p.m. to introduce viewers to the works, all of which are recent paintings.

Behind the Curries are many productive years from which came a small mountain of murals and paintings. For Ethel Magafan, the landscapes of nature have endless appeal, and her paintings of soaring mountains and rugged crags have brought her innumerable awards. Bruce Currie's prize-winning works, more often than not, concentrate on his wife, his daughter, women at work or in repose, and still life subjects culled from his home and immediate environment.

For the Curries, the Schenectady show is one of many which has paid tribute to their work. For Schenectady, it should prove an art event of major importance. (T.G.)

For 'Morn,' You Can Popcorn the Villain

"Parted on Her Wedding Morn, or She's More to Be Pitied than Scorned" will be presented by the drama department tonight and next week at Bennett College, Millbrook. Performances will be given at 7 p.m. and again at 9 p.m. tonight. Further performances will take place at 8 p.m. on March 5 and at 7 and 9 on the evenings of March 6 and 7.

The play, written by Leland Price in 1942, is a satire on the melodramatic form and contains all the familiar clichés of the genre. To give the play its proper setting, director Theodore Katzoff of the Bennett drama faculty is staging it in the Little Theater, Harkaway, Mellon Center for the Arts. The audience will be seated at cafe tables and will be supplied with popcorn and other refreshments that may be eaten or thrown at the villain, Desmond Walton, to be played by Katzoff.

Henry Sparks of the Bennett drama faculty is in charge of scenery and lights, and the musical arrangements and piano music, which will include songs of the period, will be supplied by Jerome Margolis, musical director for the performing arts at Bennett.

Bennett students in the play will include Kathryn Law, Oklahoma City, Okla., as the heroine, Faith Trueheart; Lucy O'Laughlin, Barrington, Ill., as Mother Mahoney; Gigi Williams, Albany, N. Y., as Bowery Liz; and Evelyn Lim, Mandaluyong, Philippines, as the villainess, Opal Buckingham.

Although seating is limited, reservations for several of the performances are still available. They may be made by telephoning 677-3441, extension 237.

Paltz Concert Offers Trio of Top Artists

Classical and modern music in concert by pianist Robert Guralnik and vocalists Rod and Eunice MacWherter. That's the program planned for presentation at New Paltz High School on Sunday, March 22 at 2 p.m. with a gala reception following.

Guralnik, internationally acclaimed resident of Cornwall, has concertized to enthusiastic audiences in Berlin, Paris, New York and Washington. He will join with the MacWherthers, who have a wide background from club date appearances across the U.S. to performing in some 30 operatic roles in San Francisco, Dallas and Cleveland. Presently, they are members of the Metropolitan Opera Company troupe in Manhattan.

The New Paltz High School P.T.A., which is sponsoring the concert, feels itself fortunate in having persuaded these excellent artists to perform in this area for the benefit of the Hudson Valley Philharmonic and the P.T.A. Scholarship Fund. Sponsoring spokesmen urge area residents to turn out in large numbers for the concert which is being made possible by the generosity of the MacWherthers and Guralnik.

Driving the diesels cross-country, Tex saw a lot of the U.S. through his windshield. California left him cold, he says, but Colorado impressed him as the "most beautiful state," along with the incredible view from the top of Pike's Peak. Born and raised in the East, Tex obviously belongs to the West, and its music.

Shortly after he arrived here, Tex met his charming, dark-haired wife Elise. They've been married 10 years; are the parents of a vivacious nine-year-old cowgirl named Lianne; live in a big house trailer at Spring Lake Trailer Park. They also drive a huge camper-trailer mounted on a desert-tan truck emblazoned with Tex's name.

It is Mrs. Larabey who meticulously sews the eye-catching outfits favored by both Tex and their daughter. As talented with a needle as her husband is on guitar, she whips up brocade suits trimmed with velvet and sequins. Lucky for Tex, too, since they don't come ready-made to fit his extra-large frame. His assortment of outfits seems endless—all colorful (to put it mildly) and painstakingly tailored.

The Combination Clicked

After settling here, Tex waged a three year battle to get country music on local radio—but area programmers felt it lacked popularity. Tex let the matter ride; concentrated on his singing career. Two years ago, his records began selling well; earned him considerable local air-play. At the same time, Kingston's WKNY radio station was literally inundated by the public response to a tribute they aired to the late Hank Williams.

It was cause enough to reconsider their previous stand on a daily country show. To spin the records, they chose Kingston's own country star, Tex Larabey, ignoring his lack of experience with the technical side of radio.

The hours of his weekday show (from 4 to 6 a.m.) hardly qualified as prime time for listeners. But Tex never seemed to suffer from the suspicion that few people tuned in their radios before dawn. He played away for the insomniacs, truck drivers, night-shift workers, all night diners, patrolling policemen, oil-burning students, and night watchmen—all the night people who leaned on the radio for night-time company.

For unsuspecting Tex, it began to pay off. Word spread that his "Country Jamboree" was too good to miss, and it wasn't long before clock radios all over the area were set for four in the morning. The sleepy-eyed audience had an empathy with the man behind the mike (who sometimes sounded pretty sleepy himself), as they shared the lively music and the day's first cup of coffee.

Wears Both Hats Well

As a result, Tex now answers to the title of both dee-jay and singer; allows as how he prefers to be regarded as "both" since it would be "too hard" to make a choice between his two professions.

What about his future ambitions? He wouldn't say "no" to a bid from the Grand Ole Opry to climb aboard as a regular member. And he wouldn't look askance at a gold, million-selling record. To date, his new album, "Just Call Me Lonely," has racked up more than 500 sales. He isn't discouraged . . . after all, six months ago, he didn't even HAVE an album—or a crowd lining up along Broadway two full hours before show time to make him one of the biggest live draws of the year locally. Still optimistic, Tex smooths the thinning hair under his 10-gallon hat: tells you that someday he'd like to make the Country Hall of Fame.

His biggest selling record to date is "Big Heart," with "Angelina" and "Just Dreaming" close behind. But his own favorite of the many he has cut and written is "Send Me a Postcard." He'd like to be able to cut his records with the Nashville sound; will have to come up with a really big hit before he can afford such electronics. But he prefers a live audience to singing to the dials, headsets and miles of cables in the recording studio. And hearing him live can be a surprise to those who know the "nightingale" only through his recordings.

No More Jumpin'

He credits the popularity of country music today to singers like Ray Charles, who pioneered the "different sounds of the 50s." Everywhere you go these days, he says, you'll find someone making the C&W sound for the countless people who want music to listen to, tap feet to, drink coffee by. There's a growing trend among listeners, he says, to abandon music that "goes jumpin' up an' down" and that results in "gettin' their ear-drums busted." When he takes time out to listen himself, it's always to Ernest Tubb, Bill Anderson and the Blue Ridge Quartet.

If you haven't tuned in to Tex yet, try his "Sounds of the Country" radio show some Saturday morning. And while you listen, visualize him unhooking his western heels from the record rack he rests his busy feet on, clapping his red, 10-gallon hat on his head, straightening his satin neckerchief, pulling on his red velvet jacket with rhinestone trim, and giving his all over the mike to the audience.

Before the theme music fades from the air, you'll probably find yourself agreeing that, sometimes, the good guys wear red hats.

Cool," now playing at the New Paltz Cinema. It towers as an American "Blow-Up," but succeeds in being more direct and meaningful. The fictional story of a TV cameraman in Chicago played against major events showing the sickness of our contemporary scene, its climax takes place during the midst of violence at the 1968 Democratic convention.

Photographed with dazzling skill in a blend of fiction and real life, "Medium Cool" relentlessly proves the relationship of an individual to society coming apart at the seams. It is beautifully acted by Robert Forster and Verna Bloom; hits audiences where it hurts time after time.

The Secret of Santa Vittoria

At Woodstock's Tinker Street Cinema currently, "Secret of Santa Vittoria" appeals for a vibrant performance by Anna Magnani and a robust one by Anthony Quinn. Her's enhances his in this film by Stanley Kramer of the early 1950s version of the best-selling novel of the same name.

Beautiful Italian scenery and hundreds of colorful Italian types do much to augment the pleasant and pat plot of a small town pulling the wool over the eyes of the Nazis. (T.G.)

SYLVIA MILES, shown here in her celebrated scene as a prostitute with Jon Voight in "Midnight Cowboy," has been nominated for a "Best Supporting Actress" award for her role. She's also had six offers to repeat the role in new movies. "Midnight Cowboy," which also won Oscar nominations for Voight and Dustin Hoffman, is the current attraction at Poughkeepsie's Juliet Theater. UPI TELEPHOTO)

Colonel's son in "Gem of the Ocean," comes from New York City; became interested in the theatre in high school, where he played several roles. This is his first acting stint locally since attending Michigan State University and Wilkes College, where he earned a BA in English. Now attending SUNY at New Paltz as a part-time graduate student, he is working on his MA degree; writes poetry and has a mime play on the market through an agent. A resident of High Falls, where he lives with his wife and son, he is a programming writer for IBM.

The Colonel's Wife

Pearl Blackman, the only woman in both plays, will portray Miriam, the Colonel's wife, in "Gem." Born in New York, she first appeared professionally at Canada's Montreal Playhouse, where she worked with such top stars as Christopher Plummer, Bill Shatner and Barry Morse. A Woodstocker since 1966, she has appeared in PAW's productions of "The White Angel" and "Charles the Child Beautiful." She has also been seen at the Woodstock Playhouse in "Marat-Sade," "Mame," and "Schweyk and the Second World War." A professional dressmaker and costume designer, she also performs with Ron Sanders' Novo International Folk Dance Troupe, along with her son, Ian, a youthful but talented actor in his own right.

The "Gem" cast also boasts the talents of Gerald Griffin as the Colonel. Born in Chicago, Griffin left the Windy City six weeks later to tour the RKO circuit with his father, an Irish tenor who was a feature act of considerable drawing power. Settled in New York later, he graduated from Columbia University; put in a four year hitch in the Navy; studied direction under Lee Strasburg and production under Kermit Bloomgarden at the American Theater Wing.

Professionally, Griffin has played New York nightclubs as a singer; starred on his own radio shows. Deciding the theatre was "spotty," and liking to eat well, he turned to his Columbia Engineering background; went into construction. Now a Woodstock resident, he is a real estate appraiser; still clings to the theatre as a leisure outlet. Area audiences have seen him over the years in Coach House Players productions, but "Gem of the Ocean" marks his debut with PAW.

The Radice plays promise an interesting and entertaining night of theatre. Reservations for opening night on March 6 and all other performances may be made by calling 679-2920 or 679-2114.

POTPOURRI

By JOAN L. WOINOSKI

Hearty best wishes to Community Chest's brand new president, Bob Brown. And, speakin' of Bob, discovered at Saturday's Chest dinner in Governor Clinton that his missus really made some changes — colorful and otherwise — when echoing "I do" to her mate. Formerly Bonnie Greene, she became Bonnie Brown, named for famous Floridian pirate, and we'll bet if Bob finds a hidden treasure, it'll go to some worthy charity??

Intrigued by emcee Anthony Triulzi who never once became unglued tho' a few friends stuck to heckling him like a adhesive... Mrs. Charlie Raible was all adither awaiting news — again — of some w-a-h w-a-hs from hospital. Obviously, about-to-be-grandmas are as fidgety as expectant dads, and Mrs. R. claims it doesn't get any easier as number increases.

Certainly among area's most gadabout-towners are Ronnie and Skip Kugelman; they make so many soirees, we're beginnin' to suspect when in need of excuse for a party, they invent one. But that's the price of popularity... Jim Thompson winned and dined there. Hear tell Jim's to represent community at Leadership Seminar out of state. Watch it, Jim, travel is so broadening and then the site's in Hershey, Pa., no less.

That invite "Tennis, anyone?," made famous by film star Humphrey Bogart would've been snatched up post haste one recent Saturday when KATA (Kingston Area Tennis Association) held tennis-day in February (so, why not there's Christmas in July) to kick off 1970 season.

Beef buffet, "Dutch treat" bar, awards, dancing, and entertainment commemorating first 90 years of organized tennis in U.S., all at Gov. Clinton Hotel which was decked out in tennis netting, antique tennis rackets, multi-colored tennis balls suspended from chandeliers, and group's initials KATA in bold red letters just in case someone thought it was a bowling banquet.

Emcee Bill Spangenberger — escorting wife Kay — modeled modish attire of early 1900s... Daisy Beal wore popular fashion at turn-of-century (20th, that is)... Ray Nelson with wife Davey in what must have been the rage in 1800s, consisting of not one, not two, but FIVE petticoats.

Hank Sykes with Judy gave spiel on dos-and-don'ts of public speaking, stressing one "don't" as "Never give a speech in tennis shorts." Prior to taking podium he did a fast change from '69-'70 version of same... Vivacious Mary Fowler — taking bows for decor — did a double take for May Sutton. Hubby Nick was gifted with large, bound edition of history of tennis from late 1800s through '60s in "recognition of contributions to tennis in area." Book passed from right to left for all to see and sign... Tony Badalato and Patty — Tony is KHS football coach; Patty is daughter of Nick and Mary Fowler — made the night a family affair.

Afterwards some diehard tennis players were noted wandering into Governor's Tavern; undoubtedly, the song requested most by those avid tennis players was "What the World Needs Now Is L-O-V-E, Sweet Love..."

Can Transistors Chart Romance?

They're predicting it'll be wild and riotous and an evening you won't forget. They're talking about "Dates and Mates," the new musical comedy now in production for presentation at Red Hook High School on March 6 and 7 at 8 p.m.

It'll answer such questions as: Can true love be found with the help of a computer? Does his girl or her male lie somewhere within the transistors and wheels? While most of the U.S. seems to think so, Irma Rinaldi, heroine of "Dates and Mates," has different ideas on the subject. And the laughs flow when she reveals them in a series of riotously funny events.

The musical abounds with swinging tunes such as: I've Got My Eye on You, Watch Out for the Competition, It's Good to Be Alive, and The Brain. Among the 14 tuneful melodies are gentle ballads, too, as exemplified by Love, and No More. The full flavor of an evening of musical comedy is promised in the show, along with entertainment that's pure fun.

Directed by Phoebe Swope and Murray Van Ness, with Van Ness conducting the pit orchestra, the whirlwind musical is being staged with the cooperation of Hollywood Hits. Cleverly authored by Mel Weiser, Al Davis and Al Polhamus, "Dates and Mates" is a good place to take your mate on a date for an evening you'll both enjoy. You'll be sorry if you don't, say the Red Hook High School entertainers involved.

Yoga, Zen, Mysticism, Art Highlighted in UCCC Forum

With the goal of trying to foster a better understanding of a non-Western civilization, Ulster County Community College will offer its Third Forum on Chinese Civilization on three consecutive Friday evenings in March.

The Third Forum has been designed to further the interest of the community in the various aspects of oriental civilization.

The two preceding forums dealt primarily with China. In this year's program, attention will be focused on Tibet as well as China. Although Tibet's traditional past was appreciably different from China's, Tibet nevertheless was intimately linked with China as one of the traditional tributary states.

Open to Public

The three Forum programs will be held at 7:30 p.m. on March 6, 13 and 20 at the college's Stone Ridge campus, and the public is cordially invited to attend. Admission is free and coffee will be served during intermission.

The Forum is being sponsored by the Social Science Division at the college, and H. Stephen Larsen, an instructor of psychology, is serving as coordinator.

The first lecture on March 6 is entitled, "Tibetan Mysticism." It will be delivered by Brian Cutillo, a lama from the Lamaist Buddhist Monastery of America which has a Retreat Home in Washington, N. J. He also will show a film entitled, "Requiem for Faith."

The second lecture on March 13 will be on the subject, "Chinese Art." It will be given by Dr. Hugo Munsterberg, a noted authority on Oriental Art from the State University College at New Paltz.

The concluding event on March 20 will be a lecture on "Yoga, Zen and Meditation" (a psychological perspective) by Mr. Larsen. He will also show a film of the well known author, Alan Watts, on Zen Buddhism.

Rare Old Coins At Garden Show

Rarities in ancient coinage are a featured exhibit at the 26th annual National Antiques Show at Madison Square Garden currently. The display presents important examples from 50 participating dealers as well as the traditional in coins.

Collectors will enjoy examples of errors in coinage from the U.S. and other nations. In addition there are examples of monies used by prisoners of war, including Concentration Camp money.

Art and curious monies from ancient times to the contemporary establishment are also included by a noted specialist in this area. In this display are examples coined in the ancient worlds of Darius, Xerxes, Alexander, and Caesar. In the collection are coins preserved from civilizations of long forgotten except by historians — the Bactrians, Scythians, Parthians, Vandals, Visigoths and ancient Eastern satrapies.

The National Antiques Show is open from 1-11 daily and from 1-7 on Sundays and closing day. Admission is $2.50. Diner's Club cards are honored.

beautifully detailed for efficient working hours and leisure comfort.

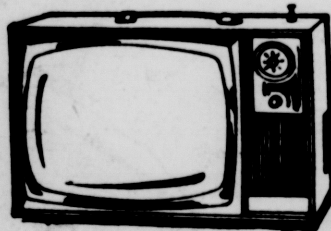

And, so, where a minister once sermonized to his parishioners, a home has been created with an inward look. Today, the former church has a snug, closed-in feeling despite its view of the great outdoors.

There are other churches in the area that have undergone transformations as buildings have been abandoned for newer, more modern edifices by congregations. The huge white columns of one nearby church direct housewives inside to a sterile supermarket. In Woodstock, a one-time church is now the local movie-house. Other churches, too, have been converted into homes, as exemplified by one in Zena and another just west of here in which the 10 children of one family replaced the bell in the belfry when it was converted into a bedroom.

But the little church in High Falls, converted from the pursuit of worship to the pursuit of art, is one of the most interesting. (By TOBIE GEERTSEMA)
